

Orange up the town

AIDAN CURTIS

THE Zonta Club of Gawler will once again be turning the town orange as part of its annual stand against gendered and domestic violence.

From November 25 until December 10, Zonta will host a range of community events as part of its annual 16 Days of Activism Against Gender-Based Violence.

Elizabeth study hub announcement is... SUSH good news

IMOGEN EVANS

STUDENTS across the north will have access to tertiary education closer to home following the announcement of a Suburban University Study Hub (SUSH) in the Playford area.

Elizabeth will soon become home to one of 10 SUSH sites, enabling better access to university education for people living in Adelaide's northern regions.

The news follows a call last year made by the Universities Accord to bring study hubs to regional areas of Australia with the aim to future-proof the career paths of students across the country.

As far as university outcomes go, Spence is said to be the second-most disadvantaged federal electorate in the country.

Dublin code amendment raises some concerns

A COMMUNITY forum will be held on Sunday, November 24 at the Dublin Cricket Club to discuss the proposed code amendment to create an employment zone just outside the township.

Member for Light Tony Piccolo organised the forum after residents living in the Dublin and Thompson Beach areas reached out to him for advice.

Mr Piccolo said the proposed Dublin Green Circular Economy Precinct was a worthwhile idea, but some residents in the area are finding it difficult to reconcile the concept with the publicised employment zone.

“The apparent lack of clarity about the proposal is raising some concerns,” he said.

“Code amendments are very powerful processes that can lead to significant zoning changes, so we need to ensure that residents understand both the process and what is being proposed.

“Sadly, the greater Dublin area has been subjected to some very controversial waste management decisions in the past, so there is some scepticism about what has been proposed.”

While the current process only considers the rezoning of some farmland to an employment zone, the residents would like to gain a better understanding of how the mining and the mooted residential areas fit in to create the new precinct.

Mr Piccolo said that both the proponents of the rezoning and the Adelaide lains

Council will be invited to attend the community forum, to ensure all parties are making decisions based on the same information.

“Residents and local councils play an important role in the code amendment process, so it is critical that they are making decisions based on the same facts,” he said.

“While the Minister for Planning is the final decision maker, advice from the South Australian Planning Commission and the community engagement report play a key role in the process.”

The forum will be held at 2pm on Sunday, November 24 at the Dublin Cricket Club, with all interested parties welcome to attend.

TOWN of Gawler Mayor Karen Redman is asking community members to consider donating gifts to less fortunate youths this Christmas with the launch of the annual Mayor’s Giving Tree.

“Make a wish come true this

Give the gift of charity

Christmas by donating a gift (for a child aged up to age 16) to the Mayor’s Giving Tree,” Ms Redman said.

“Your donation will help to bring joy to a local child or teenager in need or whose family is experiencing difficulty this time of the year.

“It’s easy to donate, purchase a gift or gift card from one of the great businesses in Gawler and drop it off to either the Gawler Civic Centre Library or Gawler Aquatic Centre.

“Gifts will be distributed by the Salvation Army in partnership with Gawler’s other major charitable organisations, U-Care and Vinnies.”

The Mayor’s Giving Tree will be accepting donations up until Wednesday, December 18.

Playford chosen for new study hub

While almost one in two young people in their 20s and 30s nationally have a university degree, less than 10 per cent of all people in Spence have one.

Since the interim report calling for study hubs was released last year, Member for Spence Matt Burnell has strongly backed the idea and pledged his support for the City of Playford’s application for a SUSH.

Now, the Federal Government has announced Elizabeth as a location for the hub, which will provide student support and campus-style facilities for students who are studying a university or TAFE course, without having to leave their community.

The move is part of a $66.9 million investment to establish 20 hubs across regional areas.

The hub is set to become a community-driven space that offers tailored support to the Playford community, including study spaces, computer facilities and internet access.

Administrative and academic skill support services such as developing writing and research skills and managing administrative processes will also be introduced alongside general wellbeing support, study and career advice at the site.

Mr Burnell said he was recently joined by students across the north to push for more accessible and affordable study options.

“The next generation cannot be left behind,” he said.

“With 90 per cent of new jobs requiring post-school qualifications, it is essential that barriers to study are brought down.

“Travel time is a huge obstacle. Over two hours can be lost in a day travelling from our community to campuses in and around the city, making it extremely difficult to balance studying with work and personal commitments.

“This announcement will bring a slice of uni to the very doorstep of our community, meaning you won’t need to commute into town or further to get your assignments done.”

Mr Burnell said SUSH will also link with the existing TAFE campus in Elizabeth.

“[This will lead to] connecting tertiary opportunities together, and creating more accessible pathways to well-paying jobs,” he said.

“Our community has been calling for greater access to uni for decades. I am so proud to be making this announcement in my first term, to effect real change in the north.”

City of Playford Mayor Glenn Docherty said council thanked the Federal Government for bringing SUSH to the region.

“[We have advocated] for greater access to higher education opportunities in Playford, recognising the transformative impact education has on individuals and communities,” he said.

“Study hubs play a vital role in breaking down barriers to education, equipping residents with the skills and qualifications they need to access meaningful employment opportunities and build brighter futures.”

Federal Minister for Education Jason Clare said SUSH would lead to better outcomes in the north.

“That’s why we are doubling the number of university study hubs, to bring university closer to people in our outer suburbs and regions,” Mr Clare said.

“We know they work. The evidence is they increase the number of people going to uni and finishing a uni degree.”

The Elizabeth SUSH expected to be operational by mid-2025.

Community focus key for chief executive

AIDAN CURTIS

BEING approachable and getting the lie of the land will be two key starting points for Town of Gawler’s new chief executive as he settles into his role.

On Monday, November 18, new chief executive Chris Cowley officially took the reins at Town of Gawler.

Ahead of his first day on the job, Mr Cowley said he wants to focus on approachability to help improve the community’s access to and experiences with council.

“It’s a bit of a cliché to say I’ve got an open door policy, but it’s true,” he said.

“One of the things I’ll be looking to do is looking at ways I can actively meet and greet and engage with members of the community should they wish to have a conversation.

“I pride myself on being able to interact with all parts of the community. People will see me out and about, I’ll be getting as involved as time will allow me.”

Alongside that approachable intent, Mr Cowley said he wants to boost customer service and workplace culture at council, which he believes will lead to improved outcomes for the community.

“I’ll be looking to have an extremely positive culture within the workforce and ultimately that will reflect on how we interact with the community,” he said.

With challenges ahead of him, including managing council’s financial situation, predicted growth and potential boundary reform, Mr Cowley said he brought plenty of experience to the table from his time with City of Burnside.

“Handling growth pressures was a key learning from Burnside, which will

Town of Gawler's new chief executive Chris Cowley started his role on Monday, November 18. PHOTO: Aidan Curtis translate through to Town of Gawler,” he said.

“The overarching thing is local government is all about community. We should never lose sight of that, that the goal is to enhance people’s wellbeing, improve where they live, make people proud of their locale.

“I believe the future for Gawler is bright, we just have to work out which approach is required based on the relevant outcomes.”

Instead of blazing away on any plans, though, Mr Cowley said he wanted to first take the time to understand the people of Gawler, their expectations, and council’s landscape.

“I tend to like to understand the lie of the land before I take action. I’ve seen too many incoming CEOs shake things up before they understand the landscape and I don’t believe that works,” he said.

“I will make the tough decisions should they be required, but I just need to know I’m making the right decision and that takes a little bit of time.”

Outside of his role with council, Mr Cowley said he and his partner are looking to make Gawler their “forever home” and become a permanent part of the community.

He said he was eager to join one of the muay thai gyms in town and potentially get involved in Gawler Park Run, while possibly joining a car or motorbike club in town with his partner.

“For me, this isn’t just a job. I’ve taken the role because I want Gawler to become my community,” he said.

“This is the place my partner and I plan on making our forever home and to do that means I need to do my job well so I can support the community for the longer term.

“This isn’t just a career stepping stone... as far as I’m concerned I’d be quite happy if this is my last role where I could serve the community for a long time.”

Hope Cup winners all stars to successful skipper

AIDAN CURTIS
JOURNALIST

THE Riverside All-Stars thwarted the Gawler Police XI's plans for a Hope Cup three-peat following a comprehensive win at Sandy Creek on Sunday, November 17.

The third instalment of the annual Hope Cup charity cricket match saw a complete reversal of fortunes for the All-Stars, with the team securing its maiden win.

Gawler Police XI started off the day with the bat, posting a defendable total which saw the All-Stars requiring 160 runs to snag a win.

While previous editions of the game saw 160 as a very competitive total, the All-Stars only required around half of the allotted 40 overs to chase down their opposition's score.

Riverside Salvation Army church leader and All-Stars skipper Darren Dwyer said he was "absolutely over the moon" to see his side finally secure the cup.

"I think as a unit we played really well. The fielding was sharp, there were no dropped catches, the running was great," he said.

"We've got a couple of injuries – Rob Milanese and Leon Budden both injured themselves running to save boundaries.

Gawler Police XI captain Rob Mowday comes in to bowl.

"Other than that, just really good, solid play. We didn't even have to use our secret weapon."

Mr Dwyer highlighted the efforts of two players in particular, with Callum Byford and The Bunyip editor Ben Lennon receiving a lot of praise.

"We had two retirees because they both hit 50 – that was Ben and Callum and I think we only lost two wickets," he said.

"Callum scored 50 off about six overs, and Ben slowly picked it up with twos and threes. It was a good performance all round and all the team have said they're raring to go for next year."

Defeated Police XI captain Senior Sergeant Rob Mowday acknowledged a great performance from his opposition, but said he would not bank on the All-Stars hanging onto the cup for long.

He said the event has so much room for growth in the future too.

"I think the event continues to grow and improve as a monument in our community and we know it still has so much scope to get bigger and better," SS Mowday said.

"It's important to remember that this event is for everyone in our community and is owned by everyone in our community.

"So, anyone can be involved as a player, sponsor, supporter, volunteer, or contributor in some other way."

With the aim of the day to raise vital funds to support rough sleepers in Gawler, Mr Dwyer said this year's Hope Cup got about halfway towards its goal of purchasing a Tiny Built unit for short-stay accommodation.

"A great amount raised by the teams – about $23,000 at the moment. So add that to what we know is coming with cheques and the launch, we have definitely cleared $32,000 and we haven't even done the takings from [the game]," he said.

"Obviously we've got quite a few expenses with the activities we had, but hoping for about $35,000.

"[Member for Spence] Matt Burnell is going to start canvassing and see if we can get a partner to come and pay the other half [for a Tiny Built home]."

What You Need to Know About the Succession Act

Contact us for further legal advice.

The Succession Act 2023 is set to come into effect on 1 January 2025 and brings major significant changes to South Australia's succession laws. This new Act replaces three existing laws: the Administration and Probate Act 1919, the Inheritance (Family Provision) Act 1972, and the Wills Act 1936 and varies other legislation. These reforms are the biggest changes to South Australia's succession laws in over 50 years, so people need to understand the changes and how they might impact them. Here's a brief snapshot of what you need to know about some of the upcoming changes.

Key Changes to Wills and Inheritance Claims

Under the new law, certain classes of people now have the right to inspect a deceased person's will before a Grant of Probate is made. These include beneficiaries, former spouses, children, and anyone who has a legitimate interest in the estate.

The Act also changes the rules regarding inheritance claims. The deceased person's wishes are now the primary consideration in family provision claims, and certain parties, like stepchildren, will be able to make claims more easily. Grandchildren, however, will have stricter criteria for making a claim.

Administration of Estates

The Succession Act 2023 also clarifies the rules for administering estates. Instead of using a set of common laws, there will be coded rules for debt payment. The Act also introduces changes for intestate estates (when a person dies without a will), increasing the preferential legacy for spouses from $100,000 to $120,000. Overall, these changes clarify the roles of executors and administrators.

What's Next?

If you already have a will, consider reviewing it in line with the new changes to ensure it still meets your intentions. If you haven't planned your will yet, make a booking with one of our highly experienced Wills and estates planning lawyers and start today!

Educator award STEMs from creative passion

A GAWLER teacher’s curiosity and creativity have seen her recognised as one of South Australia’s leading educators at the 2024 SA Science Excellence and Innovation Awards.

Xavier College teacher Jess Simons was recently named the 2024 STEMM Educator of the Year – Primary/Secondary.

Ms Simons, who was nominated while teaching at Trinity College, received recognition for her contributions to the school’s STEM programs and ability to engage students in their learning.

After winning the award, Ms Simons said she was “shocked” as she thought her fellow nominees were doing incredible work.

She credited her win to her love of teaching students how to be creative in solving problems and looking at new ways of doing things.

“I was head of maths at Trinity, but my real passion has been looking at different ways of doing things to engage students and teachers in learning,” she said.

“I was always trying to find interesting and different ways to present maths and science and all the STEM subjects.

Teacher Jess Simons uses new technologies and creativity, including podcasting, to engage fellow staff and students in their learning. PHOTO: Aidan Curtis

“From there, I had a passion for technology and digital stuff as well so I was able to kind of marry them together.”

Now at Xavier, Ms Simons is leading her fellow staff members through learning and embracing new ideas and technologies, including virtual reality (VR) and artificial intelligence (AI).

She said staff members were excited by the possibilities and often approached her to discuss new ideas of their own.

“Being able to upskill staff and engage students in a different environment with that previous knowledge, so it’s been a really great opportunity to be able to explore the needs of this college,” she said.

“The staff here are very excited and there is a bit of a fire in them to improve and build upon what they’ve started.”

With the excitement to learn came the need to tweak a few perceptions, though.

Ms Simons said she has conducted surveys around learning with students, and the perceptions of how to define creativity have certainly changed in a few short months.

“The comments... at the start of the research, what we saw was they had no idea what creativity actually was,” she said.

“When answering the questions around creativity, they were saying it’s creating art, it’s just drawing. Their understanding of creativity adapted and evolved.

“By the end... I gave the same survey and the statistical difference between the results was quite significant. They really understood and were able to unpack creativity.”

She said that creativity was vital to not only learning but building curiosity and the desire for students to take the next steps.

“In mathematics, science, creativity underpins everything that they do. Creativity... is understanding a problem and unpacking it in a new and different, unique way,” she said.

“It’s not just learning numbers, it’s not just learning facts – it’s the skills you need for everything in life.

“As a society, understanding how we learn about the world and how we go about the world is super important for us to build into our young people.”

Looking ahead, Ms Simons said she was not quite sure how to top being named the STEMM Educator of the Year, but she was eager to continue exploring new technologies and learning alongside her colleagues and students.

Tree removal under way at historic park

AIDAN CURTIS

A NUMBER of trees will soon be removed from the Ayling and Dwyer Lime Kiln Park after an independent safety assessment found significant white ant damage and rot.

Town of Gawler Mayor Karen Redman said council has begun essential upgrades at the park, which includes the removal and replacement of multiple trees.

“Tree removal is now underway, following an assessment by an independent arboriculture consultancy which identified significant white ant damage, rot, and the need for pruning under powerlines,” she said.

“The removal of these trees will make way for healthier, more suitable species to be planted in autumn 2025, enhancing shade and overall amenity for the community.

“In the meantime, a shade structure will be installed over the renewed play space, providing immediate sun protection for the summer.”

The works at the park also include a renovation of the existing play space.

More support needed for small businesses

A SMALL business roundtable at Kapunda on Monday, November 18, has revealed small business owners need more support to focus on their core activities rather than administrative tasks.

Hosted by Minister for Small and Family Business Andrew Michaels, more than 30 local business owners across the Gawler, Barossa and Light regions discussed their current challenges and whether South Australia’s Small Business Strategy 2023-2030 is effectively promoting growth.

Business owners in the region emphasised the strain of compliance on issues on their limited staff.

Member for Light Tony Piccolo attended the roundtable at the Kapunda Football Club and said the resources of small businesses in rural communities often reflected the performance of the rural industries and activities around them.

“Small business policies need to reflect the context in which the business is operating,” he said.

“Drought conditions and frosts not only affect the farmers and grape growers, but also the small businesses in the towns who supply them with goods and services.

“The roundtable heard that small businesses in country towns often find it difficult to manage their cashflows when the region is not doing well.”

Business owners also identified support with marketing and sales training would be well received, particularly knowing how to take advantage of the various digital platforms.

Mr Piccolo said while it is important to have a presence on the internet, small business investment in online marketing is only worthwhile if it leads to an increase in “foot traffic” and sales.

“Some small businesses are finding it difficult to achieve a strong digital presence, because of the way their business is structured,” he said.

“Knowing and understanding your market and using the right language to reach them is critical.

“Small businesses need a range of supports that are flexible enough to meet the needs of different business in different context.”

Mr Piccolo said the roundtable heard that some small businesses in some industries often suffered from poor perception, with consumers thinking that services are better provided by bigger companies.

“The feedback received from the various roundtables held in regional areas will inform the review of the State Government’s Small and Family Business Strategy,” he said.

LOOKING BACK

through the files of The Bunyip

150 YEARS AGO

GAWLER GOLD MINING COMPANY... This company commenced working 18 months ago and are still continuing operations. They hold about 20 acres due south of and joining Malcolm's Barossa Mine. A shaft has been sunk to the depth of 207 feet, several quartz leaders have been cut, and it is thought by experienced miners that a good gold-bearing reef will soon be found. There are also first-class indications of a copper lode near, and if the Commissioner of Crown Lands will grant the mineral lease of 80 acres, that was applied for nearly 18 months since, so that more capital can be invested to develop the mine, it is believed it will prove to be another Lady Alice mine.

100 YEARS AGO

A SORDID DECEIVER... Gawler recently had a visitation from a much 'married' man wanted by the police, but who escaped the clutches of the local officers. The deceiver's methods are to ingratiate himself with women, 'marry' them and get away with their money. Information has been received that he has already gone through the marriage ceremony nine times, and has operated in three states. A letter has been received from a woman in Newcastle, NSW that her 'husband' took her to Sydney, and after having obtained from her practically all the money she possessed (about £150) left her penniless and friendless.

50 YEARS AGO

MAYOR HITS LEADER ON BOUNDARIES... The Mayor of Gawler, Mr. C. W. Creedon, has criticised the Leader of the Opposition and Member for Light, Dr Eastick, on the local government boundaries issue. At Monday night's meeting of Gawler Town Council Mr. Creedon said he believed Dr. Eastick was not acting in the best interests of Gawler on the controversial proposals. "Dr Eastick is more inclined to accept the view that we should not negotiate to have our boundaries extended," he said.

25 YEARS AGO

REUNITED... Slobbering a big lick across James Watts' face, Suzi Q barks approval at her homecoming. The courageous black dog wags her tail, obviously pleased to be reunited with James after undergoing more than a month of rehabilitation since being critically injured in a hit-and-run accident on October 9. James, of Willaston, affectionately known as "the guy in the wheelchair with the black dog", is delighted to have his best mate back again. And he is equally delighted with the $3000 donated towards Suzi's vet fees from the Gawler community.

10 YEARS AGO

SIX OF THE BEST... Every cricketer has, at some point, envisaged what it would be like to hit six sixes from a single over – Lyndoch's Ben Tanti achieved that dream on Saturday. Playing against Truro in the Barossa & Light A1 reserves competition, Tanti arrived at the crease with his side in trouble at 5/97 and began his innings slowly... Facing up to Truro's Brad Fairey, with 17 runs to his name, Tanti let fly at the first deliver of the over to see it sailing over the Lyndoch Oval boundary. The second delivery produced the same outcome, another maximum, and it was only at that moment that he decided to chance his arm. The remaining four balls all disappeared for six, much to the delight of his teammates, and in just one over Tanti had moved from 17 runs to 53 and forever joined an elite club of players to have reached the milestone. To top it all off, Tanti finished the innings with 103 runs to his name.

EDITORIAL

Plenty on the go

IT has certainly been a big week for the region, with announcements flying out left and right as we approach the end of 2024.

For Gawler residents, one of the bigger talking points may well be Town of Gawler's new chief executive Chris Cowley.

As can be seen on page three in this edition, Mr Cowley spoke to The Bunyip ahead of his start date and highlighted his plans to boost customer service and be approachable for anyone in the community.

His background in financial management and experience in managing growth councils at City of Burnside may well prove a significant boon for Gawler.

But, possibly more importantly, Mr Cowley said he plans to really integrate himself into the community and make Gawler his long-term home with his partner.

His community-minded approach appears at the outset like it could be a sign of things to come for both Gawler and council.

If that was not enough, the northern regions also started the week with confirmation a suburban university study hub (SUSH) was coming to Elizabeth.

Member for Spence Matt Burnell has pushed hard to bring such a study hub to the region since coming into office and was certainly happy to see the initiative confirmed.

The importance of education can not be understated, with the vast majority of jobs requiring university qualifications to even get a look in, but travel time has proved a significant barrier for many students in the past.

It remains to be seen how the SUSH will be utilised, but the current cohort of high school students in the region could be optimistic they can get to university without straying too far from home.

Then, of course, the weekend saw the third edition of the annual Hope Cup charity cricket match, which already looks to have raised more than $30,000 to support people sleeping rough.

There was a great turnout on the day enjoying the family fun atmosphere while watching some surprisingly good cricket from both sides.

All involved appeared to have fun, with a very handy cameo coming from The Bunyip's own Ben Lennon contributing to a maiden win for the Riverside All-Stars.

Safety first

AS I (and neighbours too) in Finnis Street are mostly elderly...

"Mum, you must get a walker," I am told, so now I have one.

After all these years, we have been asking and asking for new footpaths.

Just one side for safety would be fine.

Yes, a walker hopefully is helping me, but why should I choose the road, not the horrible footpaths, as I go on my way.

Please, have something done now.

Then we will call Gawler a happy place.

Marg Cheffirs, Gawler

So price gouging is dead

SO the big boys, Coles and Woolworths, claim that price gouging is dead and buried.

Today, I purchased a 430g 'home brand' jar of sliced black olives from Woolworths Gawler.

The price tag on the shelf read $2.00. It scanned at $2.45 at the check-out to be told, after the price tag had been checked, that "this is an old tag".

The price increase is 22.5 per cent and that's not price gouging?

Misconceptions hindering progress

NEW research from Planet Ark has uncovered a wide-spread misunderstanding among Australians about what happens to their recycling, with about one in three, or 31 per cent, mistakenly believing that most items in their recycling bins end up in landfill.

This misconception stands in contrast to reality, with most correct items placed in recycling bins successfully processed and recycled.

Approximately 80 per cent of all items placed in household recycling bins are recycled, with about 14 per cent not recycled due to being contaminated (items that shouldn't be placed there in the first place).

Only the remaining six per cent is not recycled due to breakage or process inefficiencies.

Participants in the research also identified knowledge that most of their recycling was being processed and recycled appropriately as the primary reason people would be more motivated to increase recycling at home.

This suggests the misinformation surrounding recycling in landfill is a significant detractor from people's recycling efforts and continues to undermine public confidence in the recycling system.

The persistence of these myths and the mistrust they cause hinders progress on the significant waste challenges Australia faces.

It's vital that Australians know their efforts to recycle do make a difference.

The vast majority of correctly recycled items do not go to landfill, and the system in place is effective at recovering valuable resources, reducing greenhouse gas emissions and cutting down on the need for raw material extraction.

In response to these findings, Planet Ark is redoubling efforts to provide educational resources to clarify what can and can not be recycled at home, information on items that can be recycled through product stewardship schemes, and how to reduce waste through reuse and repair initiatives.

For more information and to access these resources, visit the website (nationalrecyclingweek.com.au).

National Recycling Week, which ran from November 11 to 17, presents an important opportunity for Australians to gain a clearer understanding of the recycling process and to correct false assumptions.

This year's campaign, Join the Cycle, highlights how recycling is an essential part of reducing waste, conserving resources, and fighting climate change.

Planet Ark is calling on local councils, workplaces, schools and individuals to be proactive during National Recycling Week by improving their recycling knowledge and building stronger recycling habits.

For those unsure what can be recycled, Planet Ark's Recycling

Near You website offers a range of resources, from recycling guides to tools for reducing, repairing, and reusing.

Front: Jenny Miller, Claire Watson, Maize Zilm, Finn Zilm.

A GAWLER stalwart reached her 100th birthday last month, enjoying a special celebration with family.

Claire Watson (née Wilsmore) lived in Gawler for more than 60 years and was involved in many community groups and organisations before becoming a resident at Eldercare The Village in Maitland around three years ago.

She was born on October 1, 1924 in Whyalla, the second daughter of Len and Jean Lismore, and married John Watson at Port Augusta on June 30, 1945.

They had two children, Robert and Jennifer, and in 1959 they left Port August and purchased the lease on the Roseworthy Hotel, which they had for four years.

After their lease was finished, they had a short break and then leased the Willaston Hotel in 1963.

After a trip to Western Australia, John could see the potential of entertainment for the younger generation and invested in a jukebox and renovations to the lounge area, which became a popular hang out spot for the younger people of Gawler.

Claire has had many stories to tell of the characters that frequented the pub over the years, like Dick, one of the regulars who, one afternoon, had a few too many and Claire ordered him out, only for him to come back with a big bunch of soursobs the next day.

Claire and John had that pub for eight years until John got very ill and they left in 1972, and Claire was left a widow at 48-years-old.

She settled in Gawler and after a couple of years went back working at the Old Spot Hotel in Salisbury, then the Old Bushman Hotel in Gawler, before retiring in 1991.

She remained very busy helping family, gardening, sewing and volunteering.

Claire was involved with the Willaston Football Club, cooking teas and following her grandson Gary playing football.

She also followed harness racing, having a lifelong interest as her mother's family, the Fullers, was very involved in training and racing, as was her son Robert.

When first married, John was very involved in setting up the harness racing at Port Augusta and the track was named in his honour.

Claire also volunteered at meetings at Gawler in the supper rooms.

She has two children, six grandchildren, 14 great grandchildren and four great, great grandchildren.

She is also a step-grandma to three grandchildren, eight great grandchildren and 10 great, great grandchildren.

Orange campaign set to start

The campaign highlights the prevalence of domestic and family violence throughout the nation, with orange banners set up around Gawler to bring the issue to the front of the community's mind.

Ahead of the first day, Zonta members will be out and about to "orange up" Gawler, which will include wrapping orange ribbons around trees on Murray Street and putting up corflutes and posters.

The first official activity for the 16 Days of Activism will be the club's yarn bombing of Light Square on November 25.

Members and friends of the club will drape hand-made orange knitted items all around Light Square, and encouraged community members to lend a hand.

Following the yarn bombing, Zonta will host its annual vigil at the Pocket Park memorial from 5.30pm on Thursday, November 28.

From 9am to 1pm on Saturday, November 30, Zonta and Gawler Domestic Violence Network members will host a stall at Coles central to chat to the community and continue raising awareness of domestic and family violence.

To finish off the campaign, Zonta will then lead a street march at 10am on Saturday, December 7, starting at the Gawler Civic Centre.

For more information on the 16 Days of Activism, contact the Zonta Club of Gawler or wear orange to show support for the campaign and raise awareness of domestic and family violence.

COMMUNITY CHAT

The best part of my role as an MP is engaging with our vibrant community through various events and initiatives. Here's a glimpse of some recent and upcoming activities that highlight the spirit and dedication of our region.

Hewett Community Centre Market and Gawler Village Fair

Participating in both these events is a fantastic opportunity to connect with local residents, small business owners and local community groups in our region. Despite the Christmas Pageant in Adelaide and the hot conditions, it was great to see a large turnout for the annual Village Fair. Events like these are crucial for fostering a sense of community, understanding the variety of groups and services in our area, and supporting our local economy.

Graduation

It's the time of year where Year 12 say goodbye to their school days and step into the next exciting chapter of their lives. I've been fortunate to attend, and have my calendar packed with numerous graduation ceremonies across the region – I've even signed over one thousand certificates and letters! Seeing the pride and joy of the students, families and teachers after all the hard work and dedication they've shown throughout their journey is incredible to witness. Congratulations to all the graduates and remember that your future is bright regardless of the next path you choose – Uni, TAFE, work, apprenticeship or even travel.

Remembrance Day

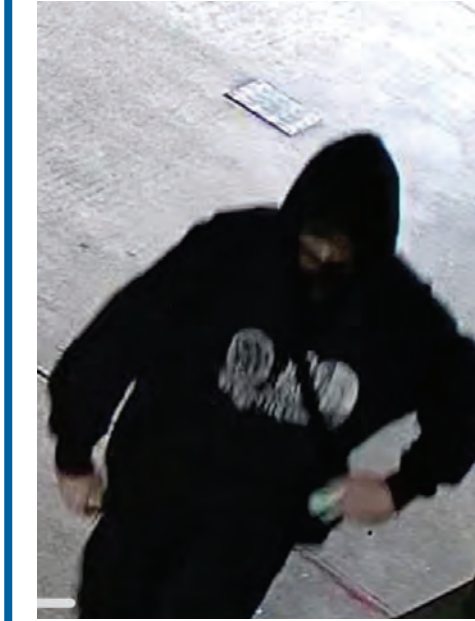

Remembrance Day holds a special place in our hearts, and I am proud to see so many of our local schools participating in the commemorations. I attended a service at Gawler and District College, while my staff represented us at Trinity College and Mark Oliphant College. It was heartening to witness the respect and reverence shown by our young people as they honoured those who have served our country. It's important to always remember the sacrifices made for our freedom and the importance of passing this legacy to future generations.

Winners Dinner

I've made it a tradition the last few years to take the Gawler footy teams that win the A grade Men's or Senior Women's premiership to Parliament House for dinner. This year, it was my club – the Willaston Football Club A Grade side. Despite my efforts to quieten the boys down, they could still be heard by others throughout the Parliament building – but of course you'd still be celebrating after breaking a premiership drought of over 25 years! I got a chance to get to know the players, hear what they do outside of footy and tour them through the chambers and corridors. Let's hope we do it again in 2025!

Business owner seeks to identify Hewett vandal

AIDAN CURTIS

A GAWLER business owner is calling on the community to help find a serial vandal who has defaced a number of signs, businesses and buildings in recent weeks. Hewett shopping centre owner Maria Romano has put a public call out for help in identifying a vandal who has tagged shops, street signs, and even the new ambulance station site. Ms Romano described the tagging as disrespectful and said she wants to see the person responsible held accountable. "It's like a personal attack on your property and disrespect on a total stranger," she said. "The shopping centre there is for everyone in the community and they just don't have any respect for it. "It's unsightly and people take pride in their own properties. To see vandalism around the place is not very nice." While Ms Romano has reported the vandalism to police and provided CCTV footage, she said it was hard to identify someone without community help. "I encourage everyone, if they know or think they know who it might be, report it to the police station," she said. "They should be held accountable for their actions. "I don't think anyone else would want that happening to their properties, so the more people are held accountable, the less people will do it hopefully." Gawler police officer in charge Senior Sergeant Rob Mowday encouraged community members to report graffiti to police alongside taking small steps to help prevent it. "Graffiti is not art – it is a criminal offence that involves offenders vandalising the property of others without consent," he said.

"Graffiti prevention can be achieved in a number of ways such as ensuring lighting is working correctly, consider sensi-lights, applying graffiti resistant coatings, utilise CCTV where possible, limit access to areas that are likely targets of vandals, keep trees and shrubs trimmed to reduce concealment and keeping spray cans and such things that can be stolen secured at all times. "Obviously if vandalism occurs, or people identify any suspicious behaviour, report the matter to police as soon as possible."

POLICE NEWS

Mallala crash hospitalises man

A MAN was airlifted to Adelaide following a serious crash near Mallala at around 5.30am on Saturday, November 16. The man, a 34-year-old, sustained serious but non-life-threatening injuries after his car veered off Mallala Road and hit a tree. Mallala Road was closed to traffic in both directions for two hours while emergency services cleared debris and attended to the injured driver. Investigations into the crash are ongoing.

Coffee With A Cop returns

BAROSSA police are once again hosting 'Coffee With A Cop' in Nuriootpa on Thursday, November 21. Police invited community members to swing by the Barossa Co-op between 10am and 11am on the day to meet some of their local officers. Members of Retired Police Dogs SA will also be in attendance to discuss the lives and needs of police dogs after retirement.

Extreme speed lands Paralowie man in court

A PARALOWIE man faced the Elizabeth Magistrates Court on Friday, November 15 after he led police on a high-speed chase through the northern suburbs. Just after midnight on November 15, police patrols clocked a Mercedes Benz sedan speeding on Waterloo Corner Road at Burton. The driver refused to pull over for police and continued south on Waterloo Corner Road, then west onto Diment Road. Patrols followed the car onto Heaslip Road and Penfield Road before PolAir took up the chase. PolAir tracked the car travelling at speeds up to 180km/h on Gawler River Road before it eventually pulled up at a Two Wells property. Police arrived on scene and arrested the driver, with a search locating methamphetamine in his possession. Police charged the driver with a string of offences including dangerous driving, speeding, driving while suspended and evading police.

Car set alight at Andrews Farm

POLICE are investigating a car fire at Andrews Farm which they believe was deliberately lit. Just before 11pm on Thursday, November 14, emergency services responded to reports of a car on fire on Corkwood Circuit. Fire crews extinguished the blaze, but the car was completely destroyed. There were no injuries and no further damage to surrounding properties in the incident. Police asked anyone with information or CCTV footage of the area to contact Crime Stoppers.

Man dies in Edinburgh crash

A 53-year-old North Haven man has died following a crash near Edinburgh early on Monday, November 18. Around 6.20am, emergency services responded to reports a silver Mitsubishi station wagon had crashed underneath the bridge at Purling Avenue. The driver and sole occupant of the vehicle died at the scene. Major Crash investigators are examining the circumstances surrounding the crash. The man's death was the 79th life lost on South Australian roads this year.

House fire under investigation

POLICE are investigating a Davoren Park house fire which they suspect was deliberately lit. Just before 4am on Tuesday, November 19, emergency services responded to reports a house was on fire on Hambridge Road. The occupants of the house were evacuated while fire crews worked to extinguish the blaze. There were no reports of serious injuries during the incident. Police dubbed the fire as suspicious and called on anyone who may have witnessed the incident to contact Crime Stoppers.

Playford local shines hope on holiday struggle

IMOGEN EVANS
JOURNALIST

WHEN former City of Playford Young Citizen of the Year Dylan Davies was a child, he said the older generation promised things would get better by the time he was an adult.

Now 26 years old and freshly moved out of home, Mr Davies said the cost of living pressures on the northern suburbs have never been greater.

With his community spirit and genuine want to help others in time for the holiday season, Mr Davies has taken to social media with his own plea to raise money for those struggling this Christmas.

Earlier this month, Mr Davies created a GoFundMe page, calling on the community to give anything they can in an effort to help those worse off.

Mr Davies said he is no stranger to poverty and will do anything in his power to help someone going through something similar.

“My family has always struggled with money, and having just moved out, I am now reminded of just how intense the cost of living pressures are,” he said.

“Once you pay rent, it’s hard to find the money to even eat, to be honest.

“It makes me think how families with children are surviving when I’m even struggling with the cost of living this much.

“People are always struggling this time of the year as well over Christmas, so many people stress because they can’t afford gifts for their families or to host a dinner.

“The cost of everything all adds up so fast, no one has an extra $45 for a ham this Christmas.”

Mr Davies was awarded the City of Playford Young Citizen of the Year in 2017 for his efforts in helping others overcome the effects of bullying, and his community spirit has not wavered since.

“I was always bullied in high school, and I took the opportunity to educate students on how to cope with bullying and was so lucky to win the young citizen award a few years ago,” he said.

“Now I think, if I was able to achieve something like that, why stop there?

“I want to take that momentum and do something that can make a difference for the community.”

Having relied on charitable services in the past, Mr Davies has also taken time to volunteer with programs across Playford.

“I have seen first-hand how many people rely on places like Foodbank and charities just to get by,” he said.

“My family has also had to use these services before, and they’re so critical for the community here in Playford and across the north.

“I want to make it my mission to create something like this that can help others and I want to give back to the community that has helped me so much.”

Along with the essentials such as bread, milk and other groceries, Mr Davies said he also wants money raised to go towards women in poverty who struggle to access vital period products.

“I have sisters, aunties and important women in my life, and I see just how hard it is for them to get access to certain healthcare and products they need,” he said.

“It should not be hard for women to get these essentials.”

Although Mr Davies has not received too many monetary donations just yet, he said the community has already been a great help.

“I have lived in the northern suburbs my entire life, and there is something different about the community here,” he said.

“We all come together when people are in need, everyone has a real sense of community and are happy to help out.

“Although I haven’t gotten a lot of donations yet, I have received a lot of support from the community, which has been fantastic, and not everyone can give money at the moment.

“The community here understands the struggle though, and hopefully by Christmas if I can even take some stress from one family, that would be worth it.

“I want people to hear my story and feel inspired to get out there and do the same – we’re all in this together.”

Christmas lights back in action

AIDAN CURTIS

THE festive season is well and truly on the horizon is a cast of colourful characters returns to Gawler.

On Saturday, November 16, Rotary Club of Gawler Light members held a working bee on Saturday, November 16, to install the popular Christmas lights display across the river from Apex Park.

The lights feature characters including Australian natives in festive garb and Santa Claus on a sleigh led by a team of kangaroos.

Each year, the lights are a popular feature of Gawler's landscape during the festive season.

They can be seen across the riverbank from Apex Park.

The lights will be switched on once again following the Gawler Christmas Parade and will be on display until after Christmas.

Christmas markets are back again

THE Gawler Apex Club is again holding its Community Christmas Markets on November 30 at Apex Park, in conjunction with the Gawler Christmas Parade.

Attendees will have the opportunity to browse the wide range of market stalls before and after the parade down the main street.

Apex Park will be full with more than 70 market stalls and more than 15 food stalls, including a large food area made up from local service clubs and friends of Apex.

The markets will be open from 5pm to 9pm on the night, with the parade running from 7pm to 7.45pm.

The Rotary Riverbank Christmas display will be switched on at 8.45pm.

There will be more than 70 market stalls and 15 food stalls. PHOTO: Supplied

Tanunda teacher makes history

A TANUNDA teacher took out the 2024 History Teacher of the Year award thanks to his dedication and impact within the field.

Simon Baker, a history teacher at Faith Lutheran College, was presented the award by the History Teachers Association of SA (HTASA) at the World Teachers' Day awards ceremony last month.

Mr Baker first started his career by initially studying science and archaeology and working in aviation, before transitioning to teaching 11 years ago, discovering his passion for education from his very first classroom placement.

Since then, Mr Baker has brought his enthusiasm for history to Faith Lutheran College, aiming to engage students deeply with the subject and foster their critical thinking skills.

His teaching approach is rooted in the belief that history plays an essential role in articulating the story of humanity.

Mr Baker said he was incredibly surprised to win the award and feels "truly honoured" for the recognition.

"Humans are drawn to stories, and history is the story of humanity itself – it doesn't get more captivating than that," he said.

"My love for history started in childhood, growing up in England with historic sites and castles nearby. "We often visited Chester, an ancient Roman fortress and medieval market town, so I was immersed in history from an early age. "My grandparents' WWII medals and artefacts also sparked my fascination. "History has always been my passion, from reading and documentaries to painting historical miniatures – and, as they say, the rest is history. "I'm still as enthusiastic as ever and can't imagine stopping anytime soon."

Barossa's Christmas shopping spectacular

THE Barossa Council is again partnering with local traders to host the Tanunda Christmas Shopping Night and Barossa Makers and Beyond Market this Friday.

Around 20 participating Tanunda businesses will keep their doors open late to enable locals and visitors alike to stroll the main street and take advantage of some great offers.

The Barossa Visitor Centre will also host a special twilight market, with close to 40 stalls featuring local handcrafted and artisan items in Tanunda Town Square.

Manager visitor economy and events Jo Seabrook said the move from the usual Thursday to Friday night means an even bigger weekend for the Barossa.

“Tina Arena, Richard Marx, Daryl Braithwaite and Kate Ceberano will be playing at Seppeltsfield Wines on the Saturday and we hope to take advantage of the influx of visitors to the region as well as our community who love shopping and supporting local traders,” she said.

The Barossa and Beyond Market provides an opportunity to meet the maker, connect with their story and find that extra special, handcrafted gift this Christmas.

“The Barossa boasts many artists, craftspeople and producers that create beautiful and unique regionally sourced products,” Ms Seabrook said.

“Handcrafted pottery, natural skincare, bespoke leather products, jewellery, fashion and handmade food producers are all part of the offering.

“It will be a wonderful opportunity to discover something truly unique for everyone on your Christmas gift list.”

The shopping event runs from 4pm to 8pm on Friday, November 22, with a family-friendly market atmosphere centred around the Tanunda Town Square, including live music and shopping specials throughout the main street.

“Many of our restaurants, wine bars and eateries will be open, and we also have the Bearded Cook onsite serving up mouthwatering dishes straight from their new Parrilla BBQ,” she said.

“There’ll be music by local muso Steve Angel and drinks by Seppeltsfield Road Distillers and The Cutting.

“We want this to be a vibrant event which brings our community together, supports our local traders and makers, and showcases what our region does so well to all our visitors.”

Workshop to help Light residents prepare for extreme weather

WITH extreme weather becoming more frequent and severe, Light residents can attend a free workshop offered by NRMA insurance and Australian Red Cross at Kapunda next month.

Participants will learn about local weather risks and how to prepare for an emergency.

All attendees will build their own award-winning Australian Red Cross RediPlan, which includes key contacts, meeting places, animal plans, documents, special items, medical information and stress management strategies.

Research from NRMA Insurance shows a need for greater emergency readiness as 32 per cent of Australians do not have a good understanding of extreme weather risks in their local area and 48 per cent do not know what steps they need to take for an extreme weather emergency.

The workshop forms part of Help Nation, an initiative created by NRMA Insurances to unite people, communities and organisations across Australia to get prepared and know their local risks.

“Our research shows 39 per cent of Australians do not feel prepared to respond to extreme weather,” NRMA Insurance chief customer and marketing officer Michelle Klein said.

“Through these workshops, we want to help Light residents better understand their local risks and provide the information and tools to get prepared.

“Taking steps to prepare before an event happens goes a long way in protecting yourself, your loved ones, your community and the things you care about.”

The Australian Red Cross EmergencyRedi workshop will be held on Tuesday, December 3 from 12.30pm to 2pm at the Kapunda Institute Soldiers' Memorial Hall.

Household concessions available

TIME is running out for South Australians on low or fixed incomes to apply for a range of household concessions for the 2024-25 financial year.

More than 215,000 households currently access household concessions, with support including payments for cost-of-living, energy, water, sewerage, medical heating and cooling, and the Emergency Services Levy.

Minister for Human Services Nat Cook said many low or fixed-income households are doing it tough with the rising cost of living.

“We know about a quarter of households in South Australia already access the range of concessions including cost-of-living, water, energy and sewerage, but there are many more households that would be eligible,” she said.

It is believed that thousands of households who are eligible to receive concessions have not yet applied.

The deadline for 2024-25 cost-of-living concession applications is December 31, 2024.

New applicants can apply online at www.sa.gov.au/concessions or phone the Concessions SA hotline on 1800 307 758 to have an application posted.

New partners in the pipeline

A TRIO of specialist pipeline companies have signed up to support the delivery of SA Water's $3.3 billion capital program, which primarily targets Adelaide's north.

Announced on Monday, BMD, Diona and Leed Engineering and Construction will share in up to $700 million worth of work over the next four years, including laying trunk water and sewer pipes that will enable new houses to be built.

The capital program includes a $1.5 billion investment, announced as a key initiative of the Premier's Housing Roadmap, to increase capacity of the water and sewer network through upgrades to pipes, pump stations and tanks to unlock a potential 40,000 new allotments across the state.

Infrastructure projects will mainly target Adelaide's northern growth front, including areas such as Angle Vale, Riverlea and Roseworthy to maximise the number of new houses enabled through this investment.

Leed Engineering and Construction is already poised to start pre-construction work to inform the alignment for new underground trunk water mains, which are set to be installed from early 2025 and will unlock capacity for new houses in Angle Vale.

“The Malinauskas Government is investing in the state's future, by providing essential housing infrastructure and long-term job security for our skilled workforce,” Minister for Housing and Urban Development Nick Champion said.

“Work is already underway on this four-year project, with the first pipes going in the ground in the northern suburbs.

“These companies will play a pivotal role in delivering the record capital program which will build network capacity and enable future expansion.

“This investment will create hundreds of local jobs and future opportunities for SA subcontractors.”

Santa Mail set for the North Pole

This Christmas, Santa has switched things up and given Australia Post a special mission. PHOTO: Supplied CHILDREN across South Australia are encouraged to bring their Christmas wishes to their local post office to make sure it gets to Santa Claus in time for the holiday season.

Australia Post has been given the special mission to ask for Santa Mail to be delivered in person at the local post office to receive a response straight from the North Pole.

Each child who brings in their letter will leave with a reply straight from Santa, along with a special Christmas Pip the Koala ornament.

Once the letter is sealed in an envelope, there is no need for a postage stamp or return address, just head to the post office and drop off your letter for some Christmas magic.

If your child has already mailed their letter, they can still come into the post office to collect their special gift and letter from Santa.

Kegel club in line for facelift

THE Tanunda Kegel Club clubhouse will undergo an upgrade to ensure its longevity into the future.

The Barossa Council announced it would rebuild the clubhouse located at Tanunda Recreation Park, with the project valued at $235,000, which includes a new external toilet block.

Council is working closely with the club and a heritage architect to ensure the clubhouse retains its heritage characteristics, while addressing termite damage.

The rebuilt facility will have the same footprint and design as the existing state heritage listed building, with the addition of a verandah at the front, while the historic alley will be retained.

The heritage architect has consulted with Heritage SA to ensure the upgraded building will meet state heritage requirements and materials have been chosen to match the current building.

This includes a galvanised iron roof, beige weatherboard exterior and the retention of the trademark timber sliding doors.

The project also includes internal improvements to enhance the functionality of the kitchen and improve accessibility.

Work is expected to commence mid-2025, pending development application approval.

NAWMA sparks fire concerns

NORTHERN Adelaide Waste Management Authority (NAWMA) has partnered with Green Industries SA to encourage the northern community to get batteries out of their bins.

The free recycling event, open to all South Australian residents, aims to share the dangers of throwing batteries in the bin.

Batteries cause a number of risks to the local waste and recycling industry, including battery fires, which can quickly become deadly during the summer months.

There have been more than 10,000 fires and fire events across Australia in the past year related to batteries incorrectly placed in kerbside bins.

The trial event will focus on “difficult to recycle” and “hard to access” embedded batteries, particularly lithium-ion batteries.

Recycling sites will be open across the state for residents to drop off their batteries, including the Edinburgh North Resource Recovery Centre from 9am until 3pm on November 23 and 24.

Gawler history shared in new book

IMOGEN EVANS

THE HISTORY of each of the five sites and buildings that make up the Zion Lutheran Worship Centre on Church Hill will be presented in a new book set to launch Thursday, November 21.

The 26-page book explores the site’s history through photos, maps and life stories of the owners and those involved in the town’s past.

The author, Bob Fielke, was inspired to write the book after a conversation with an officer of Heritage South Australia, who asked how old some local buildings were.

This led Mr Fielke down a journey of research and discovery with Gawler’s Cultural Heritage Centre to learn the life stories of the people associated with the sites.

Surge in fatal virus prompts vaccination plea

IMOGEN EVANS

VETS across the northern suburbs are urging households to vaccinate their dogs after an alarming uptick in canine parvovirus cases were found in Playford.

The often fatal viral disease has been found across the northern suburbs, including in Andrews Farm, Elizabeth Grove and Elizabeth South.

The highly contagious disease, that targets mostly puppies and unvaccinated dogs, causes symptoms such as a loss of appetite, severe or repeated vomiting and diarrhoea.

RSPCA senior veterinarian Fauve Buckley said the virus is a “nasty” one.

“It’s a really smart virus as well – when it’s ingested, it works its way into the stomach and causes some harsh symptoms like diarrhoea and vomiting, but then it makes its way into the bone marrow which means the body struggles to fight back,” Dr Buckley said.

“When this happens, the dog can no longer produce enough white blood cells needed to fight the infection.

“In bad scenarios it can cause death, and once the animal has it, it acts really fast.”

The disease can unfortunately withstand routine cleaning and weather changes, which means the spread is often hard to control.

It can be easily transferred from paws to shoes and contaminated outdoor items, and is shed in the faeces of infected animals.

“We see a lot of it pop up this time of year because it thrives in soil where it’s not too hot or too cold, so the warmer spring months is when we see more cases,” Dr Buckley said.

“When the weather is nicer, people are just out more too, which means more dogs in parks and possibly ingesting and spreading the virus.”

The virus, although at times fatal, can be treated with a number of medications and intravenous fluids to support the dog through the illness.

Dr Buckley said although the illness can be treated with hard work, aggressive cases can lead to devastating outcomes.

“My best advice would be for people to get their pets vaccinated, and to build a relationship with your local vets,” she said.

“It’s important that people visit their vets, and keep up these vaccinations and boosters that will lower the chances of your pet catching the virus, and its symptoms.

“There are so many wonderful vets out there who are ready to help.”

A lifestyle you will love with care that feels like home

AGEING is living at Gawler Hillside Care Community.

Part of the Opal HealthCare family since May 2024, Gawler Hillside Care Community is ideally located for you to enjoy everything you love about our historic town.

Gawler Hillside Care Community offers residential aged care, but not as you know it.

We take the time to understand the big and the little details about how you like to live, so you can enjoy your day, your way.

“In December, it will be two years since I have been at Gawler Hillside,” resident Patricia said.

“Since Opal HealthCare took over there have been many wonderful changes.

“Everyone is magnificent, I mean that from the bottom of my heart. I like to keep active and am excited to start Move Pro exercise classes next week.”

“It truly feels like home,” resident Ann said.

“I enjoy the daily activities, especially getting my nails done.”

Our Care Community offers a relaxing environment with the compassionate and personalised care of 24/7 registered nurses.

Enjoy nutritious, tasty meals created by our in-house chefs, and take a walk in our beautiful gardens (or bring your green thumbs).

Gawler Hillside Care Community is a warm, family-oriented environment, designed to create a sense of kinship.

We encourage and support residents to keep the connections they have built within the local community.

“Gawler has been home for most of my life, and Gawler Hillside has easy access to local shops and appointments,” resident Jeremy said.

“The improvements here have been 100 per cent and are ongoing.”

Little heroes dive into water safety

IMOGEN EVANS

SUPER men and women made a splash at Playford’s Aquadome last week to promote water safety among the community in time for the summer season.

Children swapped their usual swimming lesson attire to super hero costumes to emphasise how water safety is a serious mission.

Under the playful theme is a crucial message behind the concernings statistics of drowning incidents among children aged zero to four.

The Royal Life Saving National Drowning Report 2024 indicates that a significant 60 per cent of drowning deaths in this age group result from falls by activity.

The team at Aquadome in accordance with BlueFit Swimming said these figures underline a need for improved safety measured around bodies of water, especially where young children could be at risk during the holiday season.

BlueFit South Australian regional swim school manager Jasmin Rogers said real water safety training needs to include different scenarios that children might encounter, like accidental falls into water, which often happens while dressed in everyday clothing.

“We want to teach kids how to enter the water safely and simulate the experience of them on holiday over the summer season,” she said.

“We teach them how to be in the water with the extra weight of clothes on – if they’re out fishing with the family, they’re going to have normal clothing on, and we want to teach them how to safely swim if they were to fall in.

“We want the feeling to become normal so they don’t freak out if it was to happen during summer.”

The classes focuses on essential survival skills including floating, treading water and performing survival stokes all while fully clothed.

Ms Rogers said these classes shine a light on vital skills that can potentially save someone’s life.

“We host our safety week program twice a year, and it becomes more popular every year, which is really good to see,” she said.

“These classes are so important because it’s not all about learning how to do a perfect freestyle down a 50-meter pool, but about learning fundamental safety practices that these kids will take into their teenage years as well.”

KAPUNDA is saddling up for this year’s highly popular rodeo event to ride back into town this weekend.

The annual Kapunda Rodeo brings the best of harness racing, local talent and country tunes.

Kapunda Rodeo secretary Michelle Collins said this year’s event is expected to be as popular as ever.

“The team here is really excited for this year’s event, and we’re expecting big crowds,” she said.

“The rodeo is our main event, but we also have bands playing and 34 vendors of food and merchandise for the community.

“We want to thank our sponsors and the community who make this all possible.”

Kapunda Rodeo is heading for Hancock Road on Saturday, November 23 from 3pm.

SA residents encouraged to join national koala survey

SOUTH Australian citizen scientists are being called on to help researchers count the state’s koala population as part of a national program aimed at better protecting the iconic marsupial.

The 2024 SA Great Koala Count kicked off on Saturday, November 16, and the State and Federal Governments are encouraging residents to participate in the week-long survey.

People can take part using the CSIRO’s ‘Koala Spotter’ app, which allows everyone to record and monitor koalas in their local area.

The data is fed directly into the $10 million National Koala Monitoring Program (NKMP), which is funded by the Federal Government and led by the CSIRO.

The intention is to use the data from the count to inform future koala conservation and management efforts across both South Australia and the rest of the country.

“Koalas are an iconic, native species that are synonymous with Australia,” Minister for Climate, Environment and Water Susan Close said.

“The data collected in the SA Great Koala Count will be vital in helping to inform both national and state conservation and management efforts into the future.

“This is also a great opportunity to have some fun with the family by heading out to explore some of our state’s most beautiful natural environments... which are right on the city’s doorstep.”

Fresh start for community service

A VOLUNTEER-run service in Elizabeth Downs has reopened with a fresh coat of paint and a number of upgrades for the Playford community.

Healthy Food Co, which offers low-cost nutritious food, including easy meal kits for the community, has officially reopened after being closed for renovations.

City of Playford Mayor Glenn Docherty welcomed the new look for one of the region’s longest-running services.

“Council is delighted to reopen this store after renovations – Healthy Food Co has been feeding families in Playford since 1996 and remains an integral service,” he said.

The Smithfield store, which is also home to The Precinct Café where volunteers serve coffee, cakes, and lunches, has influenced some of the updates at the Elizabeth Downs store.

“We wanted to recreate some of the successes of our Smithfield store inside Healthy Food Co at Elizabeth Downs – this has inspired the installation of a conversation corner,” Mr Docherty said.

“This new space, along with a vibrant new paint job, has helped to make our shop more welcoming to the community, transforming it into a place where people can not only shop but also connect with the wider community.”

Conservation works enter next stage

Volunteers including Catherine Baldwin will be taking part in pugging the historical Rechner Cottage in the latest stage of conservation works. PHOTO: File WORKS to conserve the historical Rechner Cottage at Light Pass are entering the fourth stage, with the committee behind the scenes inviting the community to get involved in learning historical building techniques.

A team of dedicated volunteers have been working hard throughout 2024 to undertake conservation works at Rechner Cottage alongside an experienced heritage architect.

Works are set to enter the fourth stage at the end of November, which will include using an old technique called “pugging” to help conserve the cottage’s walls.

The conservation committee has invited community members to volunteer their time between November 27 and December 1 to learn how to pug and contribute to conserving a piece of Light Pass history.

Sessions, under the guidance of heritage architect Andrew Steinkopf, will run daily from 8am to noon across each of those days.

To sign up, or for more information, contact Catherine Baldwin via email at catherinebaldwin05@gmail.com or via mobile on 0414 679 860.

Fundraiser calls for community boost

A GAWLER business is calling on further support ahead of its upcoming fundraiser which aims to help support women facing homelessness.

Love for Lobes is hosting a fundraiser movie day at The Piccadilly in North Adelaide on Sunday, December 1, to continue raising money for Catherine House.

Catherine House supports women facing and experiencing homelessness, with Love for Lobes raising more than $5000 for the organisation already this year.

Love for Lobes owner Sarah Henson encouraged the community to show support for her last movie fundraiser of 2024.

She said the day will include raffles and her own jewellery alongside a screening of Wicked.

Hot and cool

MARTIN JOHNSON

FORGET last Saturday’s hot weather. Gawler’s Yellow Door Street Band kept things cool with a selection of old favourites and current radio hits as they took to the foot-path outside the Prince Albert Hotel for their annual Support Act for Gawler’s St Vinnies Christmas Appeal.

“This was our fifth consecutive St Vinnies show,” band member Martin Johnson said.

“And I am proud to say combining shows throughout the year with today’s donations, we raised $626.35.

“Just says so much about the generosity of Gawler people.

“It is our privilege to support local worthy causes such as this. It is something we always look forward to.”

St Vinnies manager Janine Rogers said these sorts of donations are very helpful.

“So many families are in need at the time of the year with food costs making things tough,” she said.

“We like to provide food hampers as well as the means to buy Christmas presents for each other.

“This amount from the band will go a long way to helping people in need.

St Vinnies thanks all band members and the Prince Albert for this valuable donation.”

Northern Adelaide Local Health Network is donating expired medical supplies to Roseworthy Veterinary Hospital to reduce its eco-footprint and help provide care for sick and injured animals. PHOTO: Supplied

Donations boost Roseworthy animal care

MEDICAL waste normally bound for landfill is now helping treat sick and injured animals through a new Northern Adelaide Local Health Network (NALHN) program.

NALHN healthcare staff at the Lyell McEwin Hospital are donating expired consumables which would otherwise be thrown away, including bandages, scissors, syringes and baby bottles, to the Roseworthy Veterinary Hospital.

The items, which can no longer be used in a hospital setting, are being put to use in veterinarian training and the treatment of animals.

NALHN sustainability and environmental project officer Kerrie Hill said the partnership with Roseworthy was a positive step towards more environmentally sustainable health practices.

“These results are only possible thanks to the buy-in from staff who have embraced our new journey into environmental sustainability,” she said.

“The partnership with Roseworthy Veterinary Hospital is just one example of how we are thinking outside the box to increase our recycling.

“By doing so, we are also supporting a worthwhile local cause – allowing Roseworthy to reduce its costs, improve teaching and deliver life-saving treatment for animals.”

Roseworthy Veterinary Hospital associate lecturer in veterinary anaesthesiology Darcie Kinnaird said students were getting vital hands-on experience through the donations.

“The donations we receive from NALHN will be used for two important reasons. Firstly, it will allow us to provide reduced or no cost care for the stray animals and wildlife that we provide care for,” Dr Kinnaird said.

“Additionally, the items will prove our students with hands on practical skills in things like placing bandages, taking bloods and placing IVs as part of our teaching models.

“We’re incredibly thankful for the donations and glad that we’re also supporting environmentally friendly projects at NALHN.”

Through the donations and other sustainability projects, NALHN has diverted nearly 350 tonnes of waste away from landfill since the start of 2024.

Raffle throws communities a lifeline

MENTAL health not-for-profit Lifeline is hosting a Christmas raffle across South Australia to give back to the community for showing so much support during 2024.

The Lifeline Christmas Raffle offers a first prize valued at more than $2000, with all profits from the raffle to be funnelled back into suicide prevention services.

Lifeline regional SA and far west NSW marketing and communications coordinator Ruby Eckert said the prize included an iPad, an Apple watch and AirPods.

“As an organisation, our telco service provider is Telstra, so over the year we accumulate ‘Telstra Points’,” she said.

“With our Telstra Points we were able to select a number of popular Apple products to include in our Lifeline Christmas Raffle prize.

“We wanted to keep it simple and cheap, Lifeline Christmas Raffle tickets are $5 each, and can only be purchased in-store at Lifeline shops, our warehouses, or at our connect centres.

“I think the Lifeline Christmas Raffle is a fun way to get into the holiday spirit and give something back to the communities that support us this Christmas.”

The Christmas raffle opened on Monday, November 11 and closes at 11.59pm on December 7.

Climate-related reporting will become mandatory from January 2025 under Federal Government legislation, which will impact farmers and primary producers.

PHOTOS: Supplied

Climate reporting is here: How agribusiness can thrive

THE Australian Government has officially passed legislation to mandate climate-related reporting from January 2025.

The Treasury Laws Amendment (Financial Market Infrastructure and Other Measures) Bill (the bill) passed senate in late August, and gained the House of Representatives’ approval on September 9, solidifying its enactment into law.

Large businesses (Group 1) such as banks and major retailers will, from as soon as next year, be required to report on Scope 3 emissions, meaning direct implications for agribusinesses.

Scope 3 emissions are those acquired from suppliers, and therefore are included in a business’s own emissions caused by their own operations, increasing their total reportable carbon baseline.

For farms of any size that supply to supermarket chains and other large or medium entities, a low-or-neutral carbon footprint becomes a competitive advantage and a value-add.

A carbon-neutral supplier becomes the supplier of choice given the recipient business is now required to capture and report a carbon footprint via the supply chain.

Agile farmers who respond swiftly to the demand will be ready to increase the chances of protecting their current customer contracts, and may be able to entice new customers. Bentleys SA/NT partner and agribusiness advisory specialist James Allen said they are seeing clients getting preferred supplier status and longer-term contracts as a result of reducing or offsetting their carbon baseline.

“Forward-thinking agribusinesses are paying to have this done as they see the commercial benefits,” Mr Allen said.

The argument for carbon emission reduction goes beyond simple legal compliance, environmental mindfulness and marketing advantage.

Banks and insurers are increasingly wanting to see carbon neutrality as an indicator of business longevity and sustainability.

With specialist advice, carbon footprint can not only be measured, verified and reported on, but identifying emissions sources enables strategies to reduce, offset or mitigate carbon emissions and reduce operational costs.

Carbon credits are another opportunity for large emitters that wish to improve their baselines for verification and reporting.

“Some farms will produce excess credits and be able to sell to these markets after reducing their baseline to nil,” Mr Allen said.

“Many more higher-intensity farms, however, will have a footprint that needs to be reduced. Those are likely already looking towards reducing their footprint and can look to work towards increasing sequestration practices across their operations via soil, trees and herd management methods.

“It is our job as advisors to explore the many options, and oftentimes farmers don’t realise they are already doing many of the right things and just need the clarification.

“The process of getting a baseline helps farmers identify where the problems are at, establish what can be done to reduce the emissions and start a longer-term project to sequester more carbon across their farming enterprise. The combination of these, will in most cases assist in getting the farm to a largely neutral position.”

For a time-poor industry at the mercy of the seasons and required to wear multiple hats at the best of times, the good news is carbon assessment and reporting can be managed with minimal labour.

Savvy business advisory firms like Bentleys have the right equipment, having invested in technology that can churn the data like a trustworthy harvester.

Bentleys SA/NT partner, business advancement and assurance specialist and leader in ESG David Papa said Bentleys is proud to pioneer new technology in carbon accounting that will see sophisticated measurement of carbon emissions, fast-tracking our clients’ sustainability journey.

“We can live-track carbon emissions for reporting, projections, estimations and net zero tracking needs,” Mr Papa said.

The right specialist advice will set you up for ongoing success. By way of illustration, consider the following likely scenario:

A case study

A farm decides to invest in carbon baseline measurement, verification and reporting, and seeks a reputable advisor. After initial discussion getting to know the business nuances, the advisor will facilitate a process involving assessment of the following:

q Scope 1: On-farm energy usage such as field measurements, fertilisers, feed production, count of livestock/methane production is accounted and funnelled into data form, producing a number attributable to total Scope 1 carbon emissions.

q Scope 2: Purchased/acquired energy such as electricity, solar energy and renewable energy used is funneled into data form, producing a number attributable to Scope 2 carbon emissions.

q Scope 3: Supply chain emissions relating to the supply chain is funnelled into data form, producing a number attributable to Scope 3 carbon emissions.

q Carbon stocks (assets) such as trees and soil are subtracted from the sum of Scope 1, 2 and 3 providing the farm’s net annual carbon emissions.

The above process may involve use of soil probes, energy monitors and other tools. This input talks directly to the carbon baseline technology, producing a live report and chart that the client can view at any time.

Based on the carbon baseline report, the advisor can recommend strategies for the client to save on energy consumption, reduce wastage and reduce costs. The farmer is surprised to learn that they are already doing many of the right things to keep their carbon baseline low, for example using solar energy and recycling. They learn where their emissions are high, and what might be done to reduce them. They learn where they are producing the greatest return on investment.

With some operational changes and possibly some restructure where needed, the farm’s carbon baseline becomes low, and significant funds are saved. The farm is also identified as being in a position to sell carbon credits. The advisor facilitates this process, and once the necessary criteria is met, verifies the farm as “carbon neutral”.

Meanwhile, in response to consumer demand, a major supermarket chain implements buying requirements, whereby they will only purchase from suppliers that are carbon neutral. The farm in question has their verification up to date due to the timely data-crunching, and because of this advantage, becomes a preferred supplier to the major supermarket chain. The relationship is solidified, the farm’s products gain the best real-estate on the supermarket shelves, consumption increases and product demand increases.

Further, the farm’s produce becomes more attractive to overseas markets where demand for carbon neutral products is particularly high, and exports increase.

The farm wishes to expand production and seeks a loan from the bank and additional insurance. The bank and insurer see the farm’s carbon neutrality as an indicator of business longevity and sustainability, and respond favourably.

With a thriving farming enterprise backed by advisory support and live data, the farm’s succession outlook becomes brighter. The advisor assists the farm in succession and legacy planning for future generations.

Bentleys will be hosting a panel discussion and Q&A on the topic of Carbon Accounting in February 2025.

Future artists showcase talents in Kapunda

Artist Aida Byerley and Member for Light Tony Piccolo with Aida's artwork titled 'White Noise'.

YOUNG artists displayed their talents for the Kapunda community through a new exhibition at the Kapunda Community Gallery.

On Friday, November 8, the gallery opened its inaugural Young People's Creative Industries exhibition to showcase artists aged between 12- and 24-years-old from Kapunda and its surrounds.

Kapunda Community Gallery committee member Alice Tilley said there were lots of great pieces to see.

"The exhibition is complimented by art from Greenock Primary School and Kapunda Kindergarten students, as well as the winning youth entries at the recent Kapunda Show," Ms Tilley said.

"We also have some works from students at Trinity College Gawler River Campus, and Kapunda High School."

Member for Light Tony Piccolo attended the exhibition opening and lauded the works on display.

"It is clear that the artwork enables the young artists to express themselves in a way that words can't," he said.

"The work by young Kapunda artist Aida Byerley titled 'White Noise' is an example. It portrays her experience of leaving Mawson Lakes and moving to the local town, having to start a new school and make new friends. It is a very emotional piece.

"As a community we sometimes underestimate the power of art to help people, and in particular young people, to communicate.

"The artwork of over 50 young artists is on display, and some of the young people have a real flair for it.

"Hopefully, exhibitions like this will encourage some young people who have a passion for art to pursue it once they leave school."

The gallery is open daily and the exhibition will run until December 1.

Gawler's natural environment

UNDERSTANDING and preserving our natural environment is crucial, not only for wildlife but for the wellbeing of our community.

The natural environment around us supports local wildlife and also brings people together in many ways.

For example, local organisations such as the Gawler Environment Centre (GEC) are a great place to learn about plants that are native to the area and to find out about sustainable gardening ideas.

The GEC recently hosted a competition as a part of the Nature Festival, inviting community members of all ages to look around Gawler at the native flora and take photos to enter into the competition.

I went along to the exhibition opening on Saturday, September 28 and saw all of the interesting photo entries with recognisable plants from the area.

It was encouraging to see many people passionate and enthusiastic about our local natural environment.

It was great to see people talking to one another, sharing knowledge and stories about the natural environment, what a great and easy way of connecting with each other and gaining a deeper appreciation for the natural beauty right here in our town.

Local gym tears through State Championships

LIAM PHILLIPS

GAWLER South’s The Station Gymnasium cleaned up at the recent Boxing SA State Championships in Adelaide, entering six fighters and walking away with four gold medals.

Annabel Gatti, Hunter Carroll, William Godwin and his father Mick Godwin were the four members to collect gold, giving the local establishment plenty to celebrate.

Gym owner and head coach Kirsty Gregory detailed how each of the winners made their way through the field.

“First up we had Annabel, who is 12 years old, 60kgs and coached by her father Paul Gatti, who represented Australia in the 1990 Commonwealth games as a heavyweight boxer,” she said.

“Annabel won her title unopposed and did a special bout with an older, more experienced girl, and although she didn’t get the win she showed real heart.

“Next we had William Godwin, a 57kg junior novice boxer, who took on a talented boxer from Fortus Team Gym in an exciting fight that was voted Fight of the Night by the judges.

“William boxed beautifully, getting stronger each round, and his last round was a 10-8 in his favour to take the gold. William steps up to intermediate next year and will be an exciting boxer to watch.

“Then we had Hunter Carroll in the junior novice 50kg final. Hunter fought at last year’s state titles and lost in a very, very close split-decision that resulted in him taking a bit of break from competition.

“He returned mid-year, but this was his first time back in the ring in 12 months. He fought very well, listening to instructions and keeping his composure against a tough opponent from Fortus Team Gym, and it resulted in him winning a well-deserved gold medal.

“Hunter will also be one to watch next year as he refines his slick boxing style.

“Finally, we had Mick Godwin, William’s dad, fighting in the 71kg master novice category. He had his first fight at the Club Championships national competition in May, where he didn’t perform how he would have liked.

“This time he took on an opponent from Rose Boxing Club and he wasn’t leaving anything to chance. He came out a little slow, but he put the guy on the canvas with a beautiful right hand in the second round and dominated in the third to take the gold medal.

“Lacey Linke was also nominated as a junior novice at 66kg for state titles and has trained so hard, making massive improvements this year, but unfortunately she did not get a match.

“She is such a tough, dynamic fighter who is great to watch in action. It’s just so hard for girls to get matches in boxing due to the small number of women who compete.”

Gregory believes her pupils have been so successful because of the combination of solid fundamentals and the creative licence to be unique in the ring.

“I teach a very technical style of boxing and Pat is great fight coach, so our boxers get the best of both worlds,” she said.

“I believe in having a strong foundation of basic boxing skills for at least the first four or five fights, so we work a lot of drills and footwork, but after they have some experience I encourage them to develop their own unique style and use what works best for them.

“Our boxers put in the hard work, they came to all the sparring sessions, they did the cardio, they were out doing hill sprints on weekends. They all boxed with heart and the desire to win.

“We have a strong team now; they are all working together and getting better every week and I’m hoping to have a few more of our elite boxers in next year.”

With the opportunities set to follow a batch of State Championship golds, the gym is hopeful some new sponsors will get on board to help their young guns travel the country – or even the world.

“We are currently seeking sponsors to help give these young athletes the opportunity to compete interstate, and maybe even internationally next year,” Gregory said.

“Currently, all fees and travel expenses are covered by myself, Pat and the boxers or their families. Businesses are welcome to sponsor individual athletes, or the gym with several different packages available.

“Interested parties should call Kirsty on 0401 013 189 and I will arrange to send out a sponsorship package email.

“We also offer a free week to anyone who is interested in trying the gym – we have a very inclusive and welcoming community.”

Todd and Paley lead lady Jets

LIAM PHILLIPS

NORTHERN Districts’ senior men will hope to quickly wash away the stench of Saturday’s outright loss against Prospect, which catapulted the victorious side right to the top of the Men’s 1st Grade Division 2 ladder.

It was always the likely outcome after the Jets fell victim to a ridiculous spell from Prospect’s Kyle Scrimegour (9/27 from 10.1 overs) on day one, finishing all out for just 78.

Prospect responded with a score of 9/216 before sending the Jets back in, and while the batters had more success the second time around, the contributions from Gareth Cox (43 from 172 balls), Ryan Dimasi (35 from 48 deliveries) and Aidan Cahill (34 from 52) could only drag the visitors to157 thanks to one combined run from the opening partnership.

Again Scrimegour was the spearhead of the Prospect attack, taking 5/30 from 17.4 overs to finish with outrageous match figures of 14/57 from 18 overs.

Requiring just 20 runs to complete the outright result, Prospect still somehow lost four wickets on the way, but finished the job in the 10th over.

The Jets seniors will be looking to bounce back this weekend in a Saturday-Sunday two-day match up at home against Southern District, who sit last on the ladder through three rounds.

One player who could be joining Northern Districts’ top side for that clash is reserves captain Cameron Williams, who put together a massive 120 not-out from 196 balls to lead a 20-run win over Prospect in the twos.

Williams then handled a substantial workload with the ball, taking a team-best 3/62 from a team-leading 22.1 overs.

Women

With the under 15 girls having the weekend off the only action from the Jets ladies came in the seniors, where they put together a dominant 85-run win against Adelaide University in a shortened outing.

Cut back to 19 overs each after a wet pitch delayed the start, Northern Districts batted first and posted a target of 2/153 thanks to great showings from Evelyn Todd (59 from 47 balls), Jessica Paley (32 not-out from 24 deliveries) and captain Eloise Jansen (20 from 43).

Despite having licence to swing hard and score fast in the abbreviated contest, Adelaide Uni could only crawl their way to 4/68 when time expired as Maya Klose (2/13 from four overs), Sarah Cameron (1/5 from two overs) and Evelyn Todd (1/20 from four overs) made things difficult.

Junior Boys

Unfortunately for the Jets’ junior grades there was a trio of losses in the under 15.5, under 14 and under 13 grades, with the highest score coming from the 13s.

Chasing a substantial 40-over total of 9/217, Saish Valani (27 from 30 balls), George Gogoll (23 from 54) and Veer Patel (23 from 38) tried their best to mount a fightback, but ultimately time ran out 78 runs short on 8/139.

Meanwhile, in the 14s it was the Jets who were tasked with defending a total of 135 against Sturt.

Bhavy Patel (2/21 from eight overs) removed two of Sturt’s top three batters for a solid start, and Ashvarn Singh Sidhu (3/28 from 11 overs) had plenty of success through the middle-order, but after building a platform of 5/110 Sturt was able to patiently pass the target with three wickets to spare.

Rounding out the action was the most decisive defeat of the junior grades, being forced to bat for time on day two to avoid an outright loss to Sturt.

Sturt coasted to the first-innings result after answering Northern Districts’ score of 54 with 2/270, and with 50 overs of play remaining the Jets had to avoid losing another 10 wickets.

Noah Murch (26 from 55 balls) and Prabhsimran Singh (26 from 39) were the Jets to find some form as they reached stumps at 7/110 to limit the damage.

Northern Districts' Tessie Kennedy flicks a shot off her pads to the on-side.

Adelaide Hazara and Angle Vale set the pace

LIAM PHILLIPS

THE surprise stars of the Para District Cricket Association continued their remarkable run on Saturday as Adelaide Hazara came within one wicket of a dominant outright victory against North Pines.

Adelaide Hazara – who did not have a team in last year’s Grade 1 competition – has been the dominant force through Round 3.

In all three rounds the club has posted a total in the 300s, and defending 9/378 against North Pines the largely Afghan and Pakistani squad bowled out their opponents for 93 in 27 overs.

Ejaz Nijadi (4/28 from nine overs) led the charge along with Muhammad Mehdi (3/34 from six overs), and with 43 more overs before stumps North Pines were sent straight back in to try and avoid the outright.

The home side did just enough to avoid losing 20 wickets in a day, reaching the end of play at 9/101 after Nijadi (4/30 from 11 overs) and Mushtaq Hussein (2/6 from five overs) again had their way with the ball.

The only other team in the division with a perfect 3-0 record is Angle Vale, who had a more manageable target of 165 to track down against ATCO.

Aaron Meredith finally came back down to earth for Angle Vale, falling for just 10 runs after scores of 113 not-out and 150 not-out from the first two rounds.

Picking up the slack was captain Justin Carman, who opened the batting and contributed a team-high 35 runs, and in a balanced team effort Jack Pessano (32 runs), Jamie Quirk (31), Matthew Ramsey (28), James Kelly (25) and Corey Dent (24) all made an impact.

The best individual performance of the round came from Salisbury West’s Justin Davies, who backed up his 86 runs while opening the batting on day one with Round 4’s best bowling figures, taking 5/60 from a team-high 16.4 overs.

Salisbury West ended up needing every bit of Davies’s production, hanging on to beat Virginia by just 11 runs after John Natsias (55 from 66 balls) and Alex Leo (50 not-out from 94 deliveries) nearly tracked down the total of 201.

Jack Hanson (3/36 from 11 overs) and Riley Cowen (1/1 from two overs) were the other Salisbury West bowlers to earn a mention.

Rounding out the Grade 1 action was another thriller at Eyre Sports Park, where the Eyre Royals did enough to defend their 165 total for a five-run win over Craigmores.

Craigmores appeared firmly in the driver’s seat after number three Dylan Wilson (59 runs) and opener Matthew Baker (30) helped the visitors build a platform of 3/138.

Captain Alan Hewitt also chipped in 38 runs after coming in at number five, but around him the middle-order collapsed horribly with three ducks and two players dismissed on scores of one.

That 3/138 quickly became 9/152, tasking the 10-11 tail-end partnership with collecting the final 16 runs, but Aaron Lord’s third wicket ended it in the 64th over. Lord (3/22 from seven overs) and Nathaniel Brookes (4/23 from 12 overs) were the pick of the Royals on day two.

Central District land pair of Tigers

LIAM PHILLIPS

THE Central District Football Club announced another pair of signings last week, securing the services of Glenelg’s Austin Kitschke and Zach Adams from Tasmania’s Kingborough Tigers.

Adams, 23, stands at 185cm tall and spent time with VFL side Port Melbourne in 2023, playing alongside current Doggie Jake Gasper, and is a close friend of Kingborough teammate and fellow CDFC recruit Jack Tomkinson.

Adams had an interrupted 2024 campaign when he suffered a broken neck early in the pre-season, however he returned to play a significant role, including being selected in the Tasmanian state team after only a handful of games.

A strong, courageous, and reliable wingman who can also play across half-back, Adams is known as an accurate kick and an excellent overhead mark who reads the game well.

Kitschke, 23, stands at 190cm and played 16 senior games for Glenelg in 2024, predominantly as a key defender.

In a Facebook post, the Bulldogs said Kitschke’s “versatility to play as a tall forward is a key reason for our desire to bring him to the Ponderosa”.

“A tough and uncompromising player, Austin’s ability to stop some of the league’s best forwards in 2024—including an excellent game against our own Aiden Grace at the Bay in Round 8—made us stand up and take notice,” it said.

“A very reliable mark and effective kick, Austin is sure to fit well into our plans for the 2025 campaign.”

Centrals football manager Mark Ross said he is thrilled the new recruits decided to continue their careers in Bulldogs colours.

“I watched Zach play in 2023 while monitoring Jake Gasper,” he said.

“I liked how he went about his football, particularly his execution by hand and foot. When Jack Tomkinson decided to sign with us, I contacted Zach to see if he would be keen to join his mate at the Ponderosa, and he jumped at the opportunity.

“Austin is a talented footballer and high-quality human. His ability to play both ends of the ground is something that appealed to us, especially with the loss of Splann, Buechner, and McCormack.

“A handful of SANFL clubs enquired about his plans for 2025, and we are delighted he has chosen the Dogs as his new home.”

Zach Adams has signed with Central District out of Tasmania's Kingborough Tigers.

AT long last, having been bombarded by a tsunami of wokeness and political correctness, a glimmer of balance and sensibility is now being expressed by arguably the greatest middle-distance runner the world has ever seen, Lord Sebastian Coe.

Coe has nominated to head the International Olympic Committee (IOC). Much to his credit, he strongly references aspects of competitive sport and areas that concern him.

Setting out his platform for the most powerful role in global sport, Coe has promised to protect the women’s category by changing the International Olympic Committee’s emphasis from human rights to the basic rules of biology.

Former Olympian campaigns for IOC top job

The head of World Athletics, Coe is attempting to succeed Thomas Bach as IOC president next March, admitting he was “uncomfortable” when he watched two boxers win gold medals in Paris amidst confusing gender controversy.

“It’s a very clear proposition to me – if you do not protect the female category, or if you are in any way ambivalent about it for whatever reason, then it will not end well for women’s sport,” Coe said.

“I come from a sport where that is sacrosanct.”

A key element of Coe’s presidential manifesto will be to move the IOC away from its human rights-based approach to the issue, to a policy of separating elite women’s sport for biological females only.

It is a shift he has implemented successfully in athletics, banning male-to-female transgender athletes from elite women’s events while compelling those with differences in sexual development (DSD) to undergo a minimum of six months of testosterone suppression.

“It has to be a clear-cut policy, and it is incumbent on the IOC to create that landscape,” Coe said, who agreed that the existing guidance was ambiguous.

“I have been in training for this for most of my life. I think I can make a difference, and I do have a plan and a vision for what that difference looks like.

“I think change is necessary. We’re in a fast-changing landscape, and change is crucial.”

Riches and Fischer bank Friday night 50s

LIAM PHILLIPS
SPORTS JOURNALIST

WILLASTON took control of its local under 16 showdown against Gawler Central in Friday night’s BLCA junior play as Dallas Riches chipped in 57 of the 179 total on day one.

Kicking off a fresh batch of two-day fixtures, Gawler Central won the toss and opted to spend day one on their home deck with ball in-hand.

It started well for the hosts as Gawler Central captain Samuel Ward removed both openers quickly on his way to team-best figures of 4/13 from six overs, but there was plenty of resistance from the middle-order.

The three-four partnership of Brayden Hicks (23 from 33 balls) and Aaron Steer (31 from 35 deliveries) got the innings back on track for Willaston, before captain Riches came in at five and top-scored with 57 from 50.

Six Gawler Central bowlers claimed at least one wicket each, with Zy Longman (2/29 from five overs) taking a couple to remove the visitors in the 30th over, but not before Willaston posted a quick-fire 179.

The only under 16s outfit to set a higher target was Sandy Creek, putting up 8/183 from the full 40 overs against Gilbert Valley/Kapunda.

Cockatoo opener Harvey Iredale was coming off performances of 57 not-out and 73 not-out from the first two rounds, but he had to settle for a handy 34 from 70 deliveries this time.

Only one of his teammates, Mitchell Fischer (51 from 50 balls) scored more, and Dion Karlovceec (33 from 44) also made a valuable contribution.

None of the Gilbert Valley/Kapunda bowling attack took multiple wickets, with Riley McDermid (1/18 from six overs) earning the top figures as his side looks to have more success with the bat on day two.

Sandy Creek is one of two under 16 teams who entered Round 3 with a 2-0 record, and the other is South Gawler, who will be tasked with tracking down Angaston’s 135 when play resumes at Angaston Oval on Friday night.

It was the Lions who made the decision to bowl first, and their relentless attack of the stumps paid early dividends as the top three Angaston batters were all trapped LBW.

Calum Klose came in at four for Ango and top-scored with 24 from 24 balls before he was bowled, but fortunately for the hosts there were six batters who reached double-figures to salvage a defensible total.

Noah Murch (3/25 from six overs) and Henry Roeger (2/16 from four overs) were the South players to remove multiple batters, and Lachlan Johnston also deserves a mention after five rock-solid overs for figures of 1/1 with three maidens.

Rounding out the 16s action was the best bowling performance from the age group as Tanunda held Nuriootpa to 95 from 39 overs.

Riley Samain was the early standout for Nuri, taking a pair of ducks on his way to 2/20 from eight overs, before Matthew Hay (4/3 from 1.1 overs) stole the headline by cleaning up the tail in a flash.

Both Tanunda and Nuriootpa are seeking their first win of the season, and it will be the Magpies in the driver’s seat when they get back underway.

Under 14s

Down in the 14s arguably the top batting and bowling performances in the age group came from the same game as Tanunda’s Austin Clay (40 not-out from 67 balls) did his best to hold off the rampaging Freeling/Lyndoch attack on day one.

Six Magpie batters were dismissed for ducks and two more fell for fewer than three runs each, leaving Austin Clay, Harrison Clay (13 from 54) and Jace Linke (eight from 20) as the only players to score more than two.

Freeling/Lyndoch had 10 bowlers get at least two overs, and seven of them recorded economy rates of 3.5 per over or lower, highlighted by Ethan Colbourne (3/1 from 2.3 overs), Brock Goodridge (2/0 from four overs with four maidens), Lucas Colbourne (2/4 from three overs) and Jenson Gorski (2/15 from six overs).

While that was the division’s lowest score, the highest came from Sandy Creek, who put up 9/130 away from home against Long Plains.

Cockatoo number three Kane Davis (37 not-out from 46 balls) led the way while Quade Herrmann (19 from 23), Callum McCafferty (18 from 21) and Asher Carter (17 from 48) played their part.

But the highlight of the game still came from the bowling side as Long Plains’ Morgan Litzow (3/6 from two overs) removed Herrmann and then took consecutive golden ducks to claim a hat-trick.

His teammate Cian Flynn also flirted with a hat-trick, taking two in two balls on his way to 3/24 from five overs.

South Gawler came into the round occupying top spot on the ladder and will have a competitive second day on the road at Kapunda after the hosts put up a defendable score of 9/125.

Opener Archie Ryan (36 from 44 balls), number three Kobie Menzel (22 from 17) and number five Isaac Chappell (21 from 51) were among five Kapunda batters to pass a dozen runs, and standing in their way was South’s Jacob Golder (3/12 from four overs), Hugo Brown (2/6 from three overs) and Bryson Ween (2/24 from five overs).

Nirman Raval (1/2 from three overs) and Chris Sargent (1/1 from 2.2 overs) also made life miserable for Kapunda and gave the Lions batters a fighting chance.

Last but not least in the 14s, Angaston will resume day two at 1/5 after losing a wicket right before stumps will trying to get an early start on Gilbert Valley’s 116.

The vast majority of the Bulls’ production came from their opening partnership of Campbell Richards (43 from 26 balls) and Hudson Callery (26 from 62), while the rest of the line-up combined for 22.

Angaston had plenty of contributors as all 11 players got a bowl, and the standouts were Koby Young (3/2 from three overs), Henry Barnett (2/5 from four overs), Sarah Cameron (2/9 from four overs) and Charlie Carter (2/12 from five overs).

Under 12s

Headlining the under 12 age group was Kapunda’s Oliver Mickan, who opened the batting against Sandy Creek and made his way to 73 not-out from 53 balls before being forced to retire.

His teammates Levi Hewitt (42 from 45 deliveries) and George MacKenzie (31 from 33) also batted well to help their side post a mammoth total of 8/225 from just 32 overs.

It set a tall task for the Cockatoos on day two this Saturday, despite the terrific work from bowler Jett Crack (4/33 from five overs).

Both Jobe Lanzon (45 from 52 balls) and Rory Settre (40 from 59) made their way into the 40s to help Mallala put up 8/143 against Lyndoch/Freeling, while Willaston/Long Plains received steady production from captain Isaac Barrass (36 not-out from 37), Taite Butter (32 from 26) and Koa Brougham (27 from 35) to set a target of 5/166 for Nuriootpa to chase.

Heidrich and Colbourne light up the A5s

LIAM PHILLIPS

SPORTS JOURNALIST

THE A5 grade was responsible for the top individual batting and bowling performances from the BLCA’s senior ranks, with a century from Eudunda Robertstown’s Scott Heidrich and an eight-wicket haul from Sandy Creek’s Josh Colbourne.

In the 40-over format Eudunda Robertstown won the toss and chose to bat first on its home wicket, and after losing an opener for one run, the partnership of fellow opener Michael Zerner and Heidrich ruled the day.

Coming to the crease at 1/9, that pair survived until Heidrich (111 from 83 balls) was eventually run-out to make it 2/204, and Zerner (92 from 11 deliveries) fell soon after on the way to a winning total of 5/261 against Nuriootpa.

Meanwhile, in the same division the runs were much harder to come by at Kapunda High School where Freeling was batting first against Sandy Creek.

The Cockatoos punished Freeling’s choice to bat first, bowling them out for just 24 runs thanks in large part to the bombardment from Josh Colbourne (8/14 from eight overs).

Matthew Darlington (2/8 from seven overs) was the only other Sandy Creek player to get a bowl in an easy seven-wicket win.

A4

Working our way up the grades, both Truro and Tanunda enjoyed strong A4 triumphs.

Tanunda opener Phil Graetz had a starring performance against Angaston, opening the batting and scoring 95 not-out from 134 balls. He was supported by Daniel Robinson (43 from 44) as the Magpies posted 4/195.

Adam Walls (67 from 74 balls) and Abel Gibson (46 from 78) gave Angaston a chance, but five scores of six-or-fewer from the first six batters doomed their chances as Thomas Cummins (3/18 from seven overs) and Patrick Holmes (3/25 from eight overs) bowled well.

Truro on the other hand was in the chasers’ shoes after Gilbert Valley put together a defendable score of 150 behind the efforts of Matt Norman (43 from 40 deliveries) and Dylan Busch (42 from 57).

Kane Holmes (3/16 from seven overs), Ryan Baird (3/28 from 4.3 overs) and Kym Hoffmann (3/41 from eight overs) headlined the Truro bowling attack, and then it was hockey standout Callum Munchenberg (68 not-out from 63 balls) and Samuel Donovan (54 not-out from 68) who delivered with the bat for an eight-wicket win.

A3

Moving up to the A3s, South Gawler opener James Korber (71 from 145 balls) gave the Lions a chance to chase down Angaston’s day-one total of 8/217.

But he had no other teammate reach 20, while Zack Hunter (4/32 from 12 overs) and Hudson Waechter (2/14 from 2.5 overs) kept things tight to hand South Gawler its first loss of the season.

With South slipping to 4-1, local rivals Gawler Central capitalised on the opportunity to join the Lions at the top of the table, improving to 4-1 after finishing off a 98-run victory against Sandy Creek.

It was a great effort from the Cockatoos tail-enders to even reach 161 after the Gawler Central bowling attack tore through the top-order, leaving Sandy Creek at 7/59 at one stage.

Zy Longman (3/33 from eight overs) and Adrian Connelly (3/35 from seven overs) were the pick of the Centrals bowlers.

Page 44 “THE BUNYIP” GAWLER, Wednesday, November 20, 2024

But the best bowling performance from the grade came from Willaston, who successfully defended a meagre total of 142 away from home against Greenock.

The damage was mostly done before stumps last week when Chris Thompson took five wickets, and he finished with figures of 5/7 from six overs while Max Bornholdt (3/8 from 6.5 overs) and Dallas Riches (2/7 from five overs) did the work on day two.

The division’s only successful chase came from Kapunda, who earned a three-wicket result against Light Pass by tracking down a target of 130.

Seven of the nine Kapunda batters to take the crease scored at least 10 runs, with Lachlan Mickan (27 from 31), Jake Smedley (22 from 82) and Danny Menzel (21 not-out from 89) making it into the 20s.

A2

Rounding out the action in the A2s, Freeling’s Austin Poulton backed up his century on day one with a match-winning bowling effort against Lyndoch.

The Freeling captain scored 102 with the bat and then took 3/29 from a team-high 13.2 overs. Hayden Loveridge (2/15 from 10 overs), Tom Shepley (2/16 from six overs) and Riley Diener (2/30 from nine overs) also bowled well to dismiss Lyndoch for 145 – 20 shy of the 165 target.

Eudunda Robertstown also had no issue defending the biggest total of the round at 4/272, holding Light Pass to a respectable 65-over score of 9/184.

Light Pass’ Sean Schrapel (58 from 100 balls) and Jimmy Braunack (43 from 87) had good performances with the bat, but the required run-rate of 4.18 proved to be overwhelming.

The win improved Eudunda Robertstown’s record to 4-1, which is tied with Nuriootpa for A2’s best mark, but Nuri claimed sole possession of top spot by completing an outright result against Willaston.

Nuriootpa bowled Willaston out for 61 on day one, quickly chased it down to retire on 8/101 in 23 overs, and then bowled Willaston out again on day two for 138.

The second time around it was Aaron Wilson (4/29 from 11 overs), Garry Swyguizen (3/16 from eight overs) and Mitchell Norton (3/40 from 13 overs) doing damage with the ball. Norton finished with match figures of 7/51 from 25 overs while Wilson claimed 8/43 from 18 overs.

It meant that Nuri only required 99 runs for the outright, and made it with six wickets to spare thanks to opener Jordan Roesler (60 not-out from 77 deliveries).

CLUB NOTES

Golf

KAPUNDA: It seems summer is about to be upon us, which means the course should theoretically get a little easier to play with extra run.

The greens are getting a little extra water to keep them in top shape and I am sure you would all agree the volunteers are doing an excellent job of keeping the course in top condition.

Another great week of golf across the week with some exceptional scoring, especially in the third round of the Club Champs on Saturday.

The fillies had a smaller-than-normal field for their stableford round in perfect conditions on Wednesday and Kathy Stubing was well ahead of the rest of the girls with her 37 points. Carole Molloy and Carolyn Koch were back on 33 and Sandy McInnes carded 31.

Twilight again attracted a great field, which meant a slow round for some players. I think we will have to swab young Shaun Kowald as it seems the handicap adjustments can't slow him down!

He came in with another great score of 22 points to win by a shot over Geezer. Newcomer Tania Higgins and James Kowald, Ian Watson and Bazz Kalleske all had good rounds of 20 points.

Youngster Kobe Menzel is another who continues to clean up in the junior ranks with another great round of 24 points. It is fantastic to see such good numbers out having a hit and as the days get longer I am sure there will be plenty of time for those who have to start later to get some daylight.

Thursday's field also had pretty good conditions with the greens playing a little slower with the extra watering and a couple of day's growth.

Big-hitting Rob Hancock made sure he got rid of all his bad shots in his Tuesday practice round to save the best for the Thursday comp to finish with 39 points and the overall and B grade winning score.

Steven Watson shared the next best score of 38 with Alex Nicholson and he won the A grade voucher. Geoff Forrest had a great round for 37 and Pat Haydn won the C grade with 35.

Rob also had the best front-nine score of 22 points and John Dickie beat another four players tied on the back with 19.

All three NTP's went to players playing in the same group. Rob was closest on the 15th, Simon Marsden the 6th and Neil Edwards collect the prize on the 18th. Not to be left out, the fourth member of the group took home the encouragement award.

That's what travelling the high seas does to your game, hey Seds?

Saturday was forecast to be the warmest for the season so far, which may have influenced some players to give the third round of the Club Championships a miss.

The day started out perfectly but it didn't take long for the wind to pick up and make conditions tricky for most players.

There was one stand out exception who came in six under the card with Dan Law having no less than half a dozen eagle putts. A fantastic round for a guy who plays once a week and shows why he is the leader of the Championships by ten shots.

Still to be confirmed, but his 67 could well be a new course record.

Nigel Hayes won the A grade with a nice 71, while I bet Tommy Smith wouldn't have thought he would have a par round of 73 off the stick and still lose ground by six shots to the leader!

Mick Watson also shot a 73/72 in another great showing. Bit of a shame he wasn't able to play the first round to make it an interesting three-way shootout.

Leftie Jim Tilbrook jumped back onto the podium with his 71 enough to claim the B grade, one shot ahead of Hollis Hayward.

In the C grade it was veteran Reggie 'I'm giving the game away' Staehr who turned back the clock to win with an excellent 69 nett. Great to see you have changed your mind Reg, temporarily at least.

Graham Rigney didn't do his chances of securing the C grade championship any harm with his 70 to run second and both Tim Crawford and Wayne Whiting were a further shot back. Another five players across the grades played to their handicaps with 73s.

Leigh Durdin and Chris Aistrophe made the most of the tail-wind on the par five 7th with eagles on their cards. Leigh also picked up the A grade long drive prize.

Peter Edwards again got hold of a perfect drive to win the B grade while Bob Lambert and Pam May had the better of the C graders and fillies respectively.

Dan Law decided to take an early run at the NTP 9th/18th the first time around, putting his tee shot about eight feet from the pin on the par four. No one in the field bettered it for the day from either tee. Great drive.

Sutho had the best approach from either the 6th or 15th for the POW NTP and Cougar played a perfect second into the 3rd/12th.

As I mentioned, Dan Law has opened up a sizeable 10-shot lead in the Championship after his great round on Saturday. Tommy sits comfortably in second spot by around the same margin.

Unless Mick Sheehan's boss insists he work on Saturday, he would have to break a leg to lose his stranglehold on the B grade title after a third consecutive round of 85 or less. A very consistent effort which has elevated him into A grade ranks since the first round.

As is the case most years, the C grade is up for grabs with about five players within 10 of the lead. Mick Woods lost a bit of momentum in the 'premiership quarter' while big-hitting Graham made up some serious ground with his 92.

This week's final round will be an interesting exercise to see if the comfortable leaders hold their nerve and whether the C graders in the mix can have a standout round to claim that title.

As has become tradition, the leading four players in each grade will be grouped together where possible to make for an interesting finale.

I unfortunately was unable to play the previous Saturday, but looking through the scores I noticed my old mate Fids had a proverbial shocker.

When I genuinely asked what happened he turned his head and showed me a massive bruise on his right jaw. It looked like he had taken a Mike Tyson left upper cut!

Turns out he was probably concussed from the 6th tee onward after he topped his tee shot, collected the concrete sleeper and was unable to avoid the rebounding missile. I wish you a speedy recovery young fellow.

On a sadder note, Phil Haigh, one of our regular Thursday players over a few years unfortunately succumbed to the dreaded MND and passed away on Remembrance Day.

Phil was a popular regular on Thursdays and was always good for a laugh and will be sadly missed.

As always, happy golfing and all the best for those in the hunt in the Championships.

This week the winning team convincingly defeated their opposition. Hopefully the Grand Final this week on Tuesday, 19 November (after The Buniyip's print deadline) will be a thrilling tussle.

As a result of the Preliminary Finals, Babolat play Asics in the Division 1 Grand Final, while in Division 2 Grays play Wilson. Spectators are welcome to watch the matches in the Grand Final.

Volleyball

After a week break due to the stadium being not available the season resumed with Round 4.

One more week to go until all teams will have played each other for the first time and we can get a better picture of how the season might unfold.

Even now we still have new players turning up looking for games or teams to join. They are tried to be accommodated, but most teams now have a full complement of players and often only fill-in spots are available.

In the A Grade, Recipients, who have a number of players from the Playford Patriots in the SA Volleyball League off-season, are showing their increased skills, fitness and youth and have won all of their matches this season.

They have now played all of the other teams and continued their winning way tonight with a victory over Randoes (Recipients d Randoes 25-10, 25-18, 25-14, 11-9).

The other A Grade match was a replay of last season's final. With only 116 total serves in the match there were plenty of rallies and the set score was one all leading into the decider.

In the third set the big-hitters from Simply Irresponsiballs started to find their way through the block and increased their effectiveness by reducing their errors. The outcome was a relatively easy win in the third set (Simply Irresponsiballs d Horndogs 25-20, 20-25, 25-6).

In the B Grade, Get It Up showed some form by taking the third and deciding set from Awoken. This was after winning the first set by the closest amount possible and losing the second by a fair margin.

You would think that the momentum at this point was with Awoken, and although the third set wasn't fully concluded, the advantage to Get It Up was sufficient for them to be declared winners (Get It Up d Awoken 26-24, 19-25, 21-15).

In the other B Grade game Retro showed their experience to be able to come back after losing the first set to win the next two and the game.

The serve count was a little high, indicating a number of service or service reception errors, both of which need to be reduced. The game had plenty of good volleyball with one A Grade player who was spectating commenting that "there is some good volleyball being played here" (Retro d Dragons 19-25, 25-18, 25-19, 8-6).

In the C Grade, as expected, the experienced Delta had a comprehensive win over the ever-improving Bunnies, who with the addition of another school-age player now have the youngest team in the competition.

They will continue to improve and surprised tonight with some of the rallies. In spite of the score there were only 143 serves in the game, which although higher than liked, does indicate that rallies were being played.

It's just that Delta, with its years of experience, are less likely to make that error in court play (Delta d Bunnies 25-4, 25-15, 25-12, 25-12).

In what was probably the match of the night Hiavg came out of the blocks with a first set win over Ballers.

However, Ballers, new this season and still putting their game together, came back in the second set and then took the third by an increased margin to win the match. Again, with only 128 serves in the match plenty of rallies were played (Ballers d Hiavg 15-25, 25-22, 25-14).

SPORTS JOURNALIST

CENTRAL District made the long trip to Mt Barker on Friday night for Round 6 of the Division 1 junior season, and the Lions ended up splitting the eight top-grade games against Eastern Mavericks 4-4.

With the under 18 boys, under 18 girls and under 16 boys contests all going the Mavericks' way, it was the Lions' under 16 girls who earned the last win of the night for the visiting side.

It was a spirited effort from a Mavericks team still seeking their first win in the age group, but the Lions did enough to fight back for a 50-45 victory despite scoring just three points in the first quarter.

Nakia Lehmann (14 points), Ella Whitford (10) and Sophie Etscheid (10) led the way offensively, and Leni Geister also chipped in eight points to help Centrals improve to 4-2.

The other three Central District wins were all by far wider margins, including a 74-46 result in the under 14 boys.

Also solidifying themselves as a finals contender at 4-2, the under 14 boys received excellent contributions from the quartet of Cooper Rasmus (15 points), Riley Trenwith (15), Harvey Clark (13) and Jayden Alberton (12).

Alberton came into the week as the team's top-scorer and continued his streak of reaching double figures in every game so far, but it was the sharpshooting of Rasmus that was the story.

After combining for just one three-pointer through the first three games, Rasmus has now hit six from long range from his past three outings, including three against Eastern. The rest of the Lions team combined for just two makes from distance in the win.

The under 12s were all Central District as well, running away with a 67-16 blowout in the boys while the girls dominated to a tune of 37-17.

There were plenty of points to go around for the boys, and Samuel Dim (18), Isaac Pennington (13), Faten Khaira (12), Deegan Martino (10) and Eddie Tredrea (eight) all made the most of the opportunity.

For the girls, it was once again an eye-catching performance from Annabel Wendt that stole the show, scoring 18 points herself while the entire Mavericks team combined for 17. Emma Schulz (nine) and Camilla Alderton (eight) also played valuable roles.

Through six rounds this season Wendt is yet to score fewer than 12 points, with this appearance slightly raising her average to 17.5 per game. Alderton is the next-highest on the team at 10.4.

For the losing Lions teams, Stella Reed and Ajah Akech collected 10 points each in a 65-39 under 18 girls loss, while Jacob Wood (13 points) was the only Centrals player in double figures during a 72-40 under 18 boys defeat.

The most one-sided Mavericks win came in the under 16 boys 83-32, where Joshua Munday's nine points were the most by a Lion.

Lastly for the Div 1s, Ava Wendt (11 points) and Willow Vozzo (nine) scored a significant portion of the under 14 girls' total in a 48-28 loss.

Highlighting the Division 2 action back at STARplex were a couple of huge outings from under 16 girls talent Madison Barnes and under 12 boys standout Jannali Miller.

Barnes (22 points) was supported stylishly by Eliza Gibson (13), Ruby Harvey

(12) and Naveah Brenton (12) in a 71-50 win. It was a massive explosion from Barnes, who came into the contest with a season-high of six points the previous week against Forestville.

Miller went even bigger in a 76-27 under 12 boys hammering, also outscoring the Mavericks by himself with 28. He had help from Carter Camplin (18) and Jermaine Cox (10) in a one-sided battle.

It was easily Miller's best performance of the season, eclipsing his previous top-scores of 11 and 10.

In the losing Div 2 teams Tyla Clarke-Humphrey (13 points) was again the top-scorer in the under 18 boys, while Isaiah Bennington put up 17 in the under 16 boys.

Alexis Freer chipped in 13 for the under 14 girls, and Kasey Bartsch (11 points) kept his under 14 boys close.

Gawler ends Saturday losing streak

LIAM PHILLIPS

THE Gawler Bowling Club collected a pair of victories over the past week in the Metropolitan Bowls Association, including the first win of the season for Gawler's top-ranked Saturday side.

Competing in Saturday Division 3, Gawler came into the Round 6 matchup against Adelaide sporting an 0-5 record and finally earned their way into the winners' column 78-59.

Playing at home, the locals collected three of the four rinks on offer, headlined by a 26-10 frame from the four of Darren Hunter, Peter Cousins, Earnest Clifton and Robert Lackner.

Tim Hatcher (22-16) and Daryl Kubisch (19-11) led the other two successful quartets to get their season back on track.

The only other Gawler win for the week came in Wednesday Division 4, protecting their home green against Playford 77-49.

The Wednesday Div 4s have been Gawler's most consistent squad through spring, building a 3-2 record and the second-best score differential in the grade (+72) to sit third on the 10-team ladder.

Against Playford, the home side ran away with a 32-18 frame courtesy of Geoffrey Earl's crew, Jim Beacham led his foursome to a 27-13 margin, and the third and final rink ended in an 18-18 tie.

Gordon Nussey was the skip on Gawler's tied rink, but he remains unbeaten through the first five rounds (4-0-1). Modbury's Michael Sheehan (5-0) is the only other individual player in the grade to be undefeated from five rinks.

While the Wednesday Div 4s are cruising, the Wednesday Div 2s dropped to 1-4 after a tough 118-98 home loss against West Lakes.

Of the five available rinks Gawler could only collect one, a 26-17 triumph from the team of Bob Fuller, William James, Graham Thorogood and Phil Parker.

Also now at 1-4 is the club's only Division 1 side, who went down 74-41 on Thursday against powerhouse Club Holdfast.

It is now four consecutive defeats for last season's Thursday Div 2 premiers after beginning their Div 1 campaign with a Round 1 win, although the crew of Val Clark, Margaret May, Joan Hillsden and Judy Boucher put up a good fight to ultimately fall short 19-15.

Eudunda making every post a winner

LIAM PHILLIPS

EUDUNDA'S incredible season in the Barossa and Light Bowling Association's Saturday Division 1 continued on the weekend, improving their league-leading record to 5-1-1.

This week it was Freeling's turn to fall victim to the Div 1 surprise packets as Eudunda stormed away for a 117-67 demolition job.

Freeling did earn one of the four rinks – a 21-20 nail-biter from Daniella Madalinski's crew – but Eudunda secured big 39-18 and 35-13 frames from the fours led by James Mader and Terry Curtis.

Eudunda is now already more than halfway to last season's win total when they finished fifth at 9-10-2.

The only other team already at five wins is Lyndoch (5-2), who made things look easy against a Tanunda side that pulled off a shock upset over Nuriootpa last week.

A 33-10 frame from the Lyndoch quartet of Harry Sykes, Ashley Thomas, Chris Rule and Aaron Ayres set the tone, and just like Freeling, Tanunda's only successful rink came by one shot (17-16).

Perennial premiership contenders Angaston (4-3) sit third after a tough 80-65 road win at Kapunda, where each side earned two rinks.

Luckily for Angaston, the margins of 23-10 and 22-16 from Liam Buckley and Mathew Short's squads were enough to overcome Kapunda's narrow victories of 19-17 and 20-18.

Rounding out the top-four is Nuriootpa, who capitalised on Tanunda's loss to snatch their spot in the finals placings.

Nuri enjoyed the most one-sided result in the division, mauling Mt Pleasant 112-38, which was highlighted by a 34-6 performance from Kate Blacksell, Robert Randall, Hanika Booth and Robert Grope.

Meanwhile, in Thursday's Division 1, the top-of-the-table clash between unbeaten Angaston (5-0-1) and shock second-placers Tanunda (3-1-1) delivered as a spectacle, ending in a 65-65 draw.

Tanunda could only secure one of the three rinks away from home, but the 23-14 score from Peter Temme, Greg Cruickshank and Peter Baverstock was enough to claw back the deficits from Angaston's 26-24 and 25-18 triumphs.

Joining Angaston and Tanunda as the only other team to have already banked three wins is Kapunda, who took down Lyndoch 64-44 to improve to 3-2 behind a 24-11 rink from John Dermody, Andrew Martin and Richard Atkins.

Reigning Thursday Div 1 premiers Nuriootpa made a horror start to the young season, but a 96-35 hammering of Freeling means they have now clawed back to 2-3, tied for fourth place.

Port prelim- bound after eighth on the trot

LIAM PHILLIPS

THE magical run from Caitlin Wendland's Port Adelaide continued on Saturday night as the Power pulled off the biggest three-quarter time comeback in AFLW history to book a spot in this weekend's preliminary final.

Port Adelaide were big underdogs heading into the second week of finals to take on a Hawthorn side that finished the home-and-away season with a stellar 10-1 record.

But despite trailing 5.12 (42) to 3.2 (20) at the final change of ends, the Power stormed home with an enormous fourth period to claim a stunning 7.8 (50) to 6.13 (49) triumph – Port Adelaide's eighth consecutive win.

Hawthorn looked like a top-two side throughout the clash, racking up 51 inside-50s to Port Adelaide's 29 and a mark advantage of 37-21, but it was the Power who controlled the stoppages, winning the clearance count 37-23.

The South Aussies were behind 3.8 (26) to 3.2 (20) after a competitive first half, but it looked like their season was slipping away after failing to score in the third period.

But there was another twist in the tale, and it began with Abbey Dowrick's goal to begin the fourth quarter.

Gemma Houghton followed it soon after with her second of the game, and when Matilda Scholz snagged the next one it marked 21 consecutive points for the Power, cutting the margin to one point.

Dowrick then continued the onslaught with Port Adelaide's fourth goal of the frame, before Hawthorn's Kaitlyn Ashmore answered with a major at the 18-minute mark, putting the Hawks back in front by one.

There was less than five minutes remaining at that stage, and after tying things up with a rushed behind, Sachi Syme was able to deliver the most important point of Port Adelaide's young AFLW history to stick their noses back in front when it mattered most.

It was a remarkable turnaround from Port Adelaide, who owned a record of just 1-4 through the first five games before embarking on the current eight-game winning streak.

It was a quiet outing for Willaston and Central District product Wendland, snapping a streak of six consecutive appearances with at least one goal, but she still collected five touches, four tackles and kicked two behinds.

In Port Adelaide's first ever AFLW preliminary final the club will take on undefeated minor premiers North Melbourne at IKON Park on Saturday at 2.35pm.

One more win could set up an epic all-Adelaide grand final if the Crows can also get the job done in the other prelim against reigning premiers Brisbane.

Willaston hand Xavier Saints a bagel

WILLASTON were the big winners from Friday night's Gawler and District Tennis Association action at Essex Park, running away with a 12-0 shutout against Xavier Saints.

The total game count from the 12 sets was 72-19 in Willaston's favour, boosted by 6-0 singles results from Ryan Reincke and Angela Edwards.

The decisive victory improved Willaston's record to 4-1, which has them sitting second on the Division 2/3 ladder.

Only Tod Street Blue owns a better mark at 5-0, and they showed their ascendancy over Tod Street Gold by a margin of 10-2.

South Gawler footballer Alex Hansen was a standout for the victorious Blue outfit, earning a 6-1 singles victory before joining forces with Lane Reschke (6-1) and Annemarie Nicolai (6-2) for a pair of doubles wins.

Reschke also swept his three sets 3-0, as did teammate Jodie Gibbins, which included a couple of 6-0s.

The closest matchup of the week came between South Lyndoch and Two Wells, where South Lyndoch prevailed 7-5 to keep Two Wells still seeking their first win.

It was a solid showing from Two Wells regardless, winning three of the six singles sets including a 6-1 smashing for Graham Phillips.

But for South Lyndoch both Julie Carmody (6-2, 6-0) and Alan Carmody (6-1, 6-2) played great, each winning two sets.

Division 1 sides had the weekend off after heat caused cancellations on Saturday, but after five rounds the top grade has already become a two-horse race between Xavier Saints White (4-1) and Trinity Old Scholars (4-1).

It was a busy weekend for Vaughan, who came into his hometown event as the only competitor entered in both the circuit and speedway disciplines

Speaking ahead of the challenge, the second-generation motorsport talent said the two events demand completely different skills.

“Totally different,” he said.

“I don’t think there’s much you can take between the two. I think I am the only one doing the speedway as well as the circuit, so I just want to go out and have a bit of fun.

“To be honest, it has been a little disappointing from the Super2 side. We headed into the year wanting to be championship contenders.

“We have been fast every round, we’ve just had little things go wrong like our starter motor failure at Perth, we qualified poorly in the wet at Sandown.

“Speedway is in my family’s blood. Dad raced for 30 years in speedway in the sedan classes and then I went a different direction on the circuit stuff, but recently had a crack on the dirt and enjoyed it, so I have been doing a bit of that to keep me sharp

“The Adelaide event is pretty exciting for speedway, so I thought why not?”

For the Super2 competition, Vaughan finished a disappointing 14th out of 17 cars in the first race on Saturday, but he responded well on Sunday for a respectable seventh, seven seconds behind the podium spots.

“So that’s a wrap on our 2024 Super2 campaign, my last race with Tickford Racing,” he said in a social media video immediately after the dust had settled.

“Good race, we had heaps of pace, got up through the field, but unfortunately we qualified a bit further down than we wanted.

“Thanks for all my family, supporters, and everyone who makes this possible – I can’t wait to see whatever comes in the future.”

Fighting Rangers triumph in Payneham

THE Gawler Rangers fought tooth and nail all the way and were rewarded with a 4-3 victory over East Torrens at Payneham in Saturday’s Division 1 baseball.

The winning run did not score until the sixth and final inning, in a game that was shortened because of the league’s heat policy. With the scores locked 3-3 going into that final frame, Gawler made its charge.

Tyler Renken walked and was bunted to second base by Noah Okeil, and came home on Boyd Worden’s double.

Trailing 4-3, the Red Sox had one last chance to respond.

Gawler pitcher Ethan Badcock came onto the mound in relief, and struck out the first batter, which was followed by a walk and a foul pop-up to Sam Bawden at first base for the second out.

East Torrens batter Dalton Probert then hit a long ball to right-field, which looked like scoring the tying run, but fortunately it crossed the foul line for a ground-rule double – putting runners at second and third base.

Another dangerous batter in Aiden Lucas was East Torrens’s last hope, and he hit a high fly ball behind second base. The tricky wind made it a tough job for Ranger Brad Przibilla, but he held on to the catch to ensure the victory.

Gawler scored twice in the first frame after

Zak Heintze-Unger walked, Aiden Prokopec hit a RBI double, Dylan Child singled and Bawden hit a sacrifice-fly.

But the home side rallied for three runs in the bottom of the second to take a 3-2 lead.

At the top of the fourth the Rangers knotted the scores at 3-3 when Zak Heintze-Unger walked and Worden hit a RBI double, which remained the scores until the final dig.

Luis Verastegui pitched two innings for the win, collecting four strikeouts for no hits, and Badcock came in for that final inning, conceding one hit for one K2.

Taka Homma started on the mound and threw three innings for five hits and two K2s.

After six rounds, Gawler has four wins and is just one victory behind the top-three sides.

This Saturday the Rangers host Henley and Grange at Karbeethan Reserve from 4pm, before hosting Kensington from 6pm on Tuesday.

All The Trix breaks through at Globe Derby

GRAHAM FISCHER

EXCITING young square-gaiter All The Trix stamped himself as a future star with a tough win in the 2024 Ladbrokes SA Square Trotters Association Gramel Trotters Cup (2645m) at Globe Derby Park on Saturday.

Trained by Claire Goble at Wasleys and driven by senior reinsman David Smith, All The Trix ($5.50 into $3.50 equal-favourite) sat parked in the staying event and held on to win by a long-head from Wishing Star ($11), with Regal Attire ($7.50) a short half-head away third.

The winner, only a four-year-old, is considered a juvenile in trotting terms, with the majority of square-gaiters not reaching their peak until around six or older.

All The Trix was bred and is owned in partnership by Goble and New South Wales council executive Paul Rofe.

Honouring South Australia’s most famous trotter, Gramel – a champion in the 1960s who set 23 track records – has taken various guises since being introduced onto the calendar by Harness Racing South Australia in 1971.

It began as a three-race series before losing some of its prestige, and most recently being reinvented as the Gramel Trotters Cup, a race that can now grow to become the favourite it was when the legendary Knight Pistol was a three-time winner, once off a 50-metre handicap and the other two giving away 80-metre starts.

For driver David Smith, 66, it was his first win in the Gramel Cup, joining his father Alan, who was successful in 1999 with Keystone Rule.

Smith said it had always been his intention to sit outside the leader with All The Trix.

“He had suffered early interference at his last two runs, and also in a trial,” Smith said.

“So I wanted to trot away from his 10-metre handicap, stay wide and out of trouble, then let him trot around to sit parked.

“I sent him to the front 600 metres out and thought I would make the others chase him. In the straight I was thinking maybe I went a bit early, but when he was aware of the challenge he seemed to find another burst to win.”

All The Trix was Goble’s second win after being successful with Saybia back in 2009.

“All The Trix is certainly a talented young trotter and I’m excited about what he can do,” Goble said.

“It is extra to special to have bred him, and it has been a long pathway, as it is with all horses to get him to the track.

“I have to thank Michael Dodd from Sheaoak Log who breaks in all my horses – he does a wonderful job breaking them in and they always come back with magnificent manners.

“Also, Greg and in particular Ken Rogers, who drove him early and helped with his race manners.”

Mount Gambier owner-breeder Andrew Clarke, Roseworthy trainer Toby Ryan and his reinsperson wife Lisa celebrated a big double with half-brothers Aintsobad and Ubetonred.

Both horses sat outside the leaders in their races and were tough enough to win.

Aintsobad ($2.40 favourite) never really looked likely to win the 2024 Ladbrokes Veterinary Surgeons Cup (2230m) until the final 50 metres when he surged to grab a one-metre win from the pacemaker Springfield Affair ($6.50).

Driver Lisa Ryan said during the race she had been aware of the front-running tactics of Gaita Pullicino on Springfield Affair.

“I knew Gaita would apply the pressure over the final lap and I was conscious of not letting her get away from me,” Ryan said.

“On the home turn, with the backmarkers making their runs, I thought we were going to run an honourable third or fourth.

“But he has a real toughness and will to win and lifted over the final stages to score.”

Trainer Toby Ryan said Aintsobad would now run in a heat of the Southern Cross for four-year-old and over entires & geldings on Sunday, November 24.

He added Ubetonred would contest the Southern Cross heat for three-year-old colts and geldings on Saturday, November 23.

“He may not be quite up to the class of a Bay Jim Major for example, but tonight he showed he has earned the opportunity to have a go,” Ryan said.

“He is an improver and has a toughness which could prove an asset.”

A heavily backed $1.70 favourite, Ubetonred, despite sitting tough, raced away to record a seven-metre win in the Naracoorte & Penola Veterinary Centres Three-Year-Old Pace (1800m) beating The Reginator ($7.50).

Andrew Clarke believes Ubetonred will prove a better horse than Aintsobad.

“From the time I broke him in I felt he had a bit more upside,” Clarke said.

“He had the strength of Aintsobad, and being only three, can only get better.”

Clarke said his broodmare Dulcies Dilemma had just returned a positive test to the stallion Restrepo, the sire of Ubetonred and his other handy pacer Urabadboy.

Greyhound industry remembers trailblazer Modra

LUKE MARCHIORO

THE SA greyhound racing industry is today mourning the passing of industry stalwart Angela Modra, who passed away on Friday aged 78.

Angela was an industry trailblazer for female greyhound trainers, having held a trainer’s licence for nearly 60 years as one of the very first female trainers ever registered.

She made her start caring for animals when working as a vet nurse working for renowned greyhound veterinarian Jim Gannon while also clipping and grooming pets in the War-randyte area.

Angela’s early involvement in the industry was alongside fellow trailblazers, the late Karen Leek and Sandra Reed (daughter of legendary trainer Paul Hogan and a former Victorian GBOTA chair) and trained her first champion Lufra Boy in the 1960s, racing across Victoria and New South Wales.

Eventually moving to SA in the early 1990s and settling at a picturesque Gawler River property, Angela’s lifetime in greyhounds was again rewarded when her pride and joy Silver Saul burst onto the national stage, emerging as one of the sport’s biggest stars.

His ascent to the very top, which included the SA Sprint Championship, a third placing in the National Sprint final, a second place in the Australian Cup and representation twice in the Top Gun, was culminated by winning the Shootout in 2002, where he produced a sensational performance to win the then-Group 2 feature.

Following Silver Saul, Angela’s impact on the industry continued in recent years as a very successful trainer and breeder, whilst also being a continual source of help and advice for anyone who needed it in the industry.

Greyhound Racing SA chief executive Brenton Scott said Angela had a profound impact on the industry.

“There are few people in our great industry that have impacted as positively as Angela was able to,” Scott said.

“She proudly led the way for female trainers and her love for greyhounds, indeed all animals, was central to her training philosophy and no doubt the backbone of her considerable success.

“Her willingness to guide and quietly help others without fuss or fanfare was inbuilt in her character... a great thinker, a genuine people-engager and the biggest of hearts.

“I doubt that anybody could have endured her challenging circumstances over the past six months as bravely and as selflessly as she did.

“All in the greyhound industry extend our condolences to partner Jack, son Mark and other family members on her passing. She will be sorely missed by so many.”

GUIDE

NOVEMBER 20-26, 2024

Norton king of spin

FILMED in Manchester, England, the latest iteration of this perennial game show favourite sees expat Australians test their word-puzzle solving skills under the guidance of host-with-the-most Graham Norton.

Premiering tonight, the reinvigorated format will see three players spin the wheel to be in with the chance of winning $50,000.

Norton's trademark wit and charm bring a real warmth to the game as he shares the players' highs and lows and throws in a joke or two. At the end of each episode, Norton invites the player with the most winnings to spin the "Mini-Wheel". If they can solve one final puzzle within 10 seconds, they could be going home with the big prize.

"I'm beyond excited to be bringing such an iconic American show to Australia with Network 10," Norton enthuses.

"Hosting game shows is brilliant fun and even more so when you have a giant wheel to spin!

"This show has it all, mixing skill, luck and lots of surprises and I hope the Australian audience loves it."

CAPRICORN Dec 22 – Jan 19

A new idea will get off to a good start, but you may have to modify your original plans a bit in order to take recent events into account. Romance: A chance meeting with a friend from work may put your relationship with this person onto a more intimate footing. Your love-life is due for a major boost!

AQUARIUS Jan 20 – Feb 18

Chores have been piling up and need to be dealt with. Get them out of the way as soon as possible so that you can get on to more important things! Romance: A powerful aspect to Venus will help to cement your relationship after a recent misunderstanding. An outing later in the week will be worth looking forward to.

PISCES Feb 19 – Mar 20

Getting to know a co-worker will help you to discover depth in this person which you never knew existed. Over the next few weeks you will grow a lot closer to each other. Romance: A favourable aspect to Jupiter will give you the confidence you need to make the first move in a new relationship. Don't be shy about making your feelings clear!

ARIES Mar 21 – Apr 19

A few hours spent by yourself will give you the chance to think through recent events more carefully. Focus on your achievements rather than on the obstacles. Romance: If you are inconsistent your partner won't know what to make of the situation. Make your mind up about what you want to do and stick to it!

TAURUS Apr 20 – May 20

A challenging aspect to Neptune could make you a little diffuse at times. A minor mistake early in the week could have serious repercussions a couple of days later. Romance: Don't let a small frustration throw you off course. You may not be feeling your usual self at the moment, and will give up far too easily.

GEMINI May 21 – Jun 21

If you can understand a recent misunderstanding you may be able to stop the same thing happening again. Don't blame somebody else for a mistake which may have been partially your own fault. Romance: Don't let a minor let-down lead to a major argument. Your partner is under quite a bit of stress at the moment and may not get everything right.

CANCER Jun 22 – Jul 22

Be careful to avoid getting into an argument with a person whom you depend on. Your emotions may be a little stronger than you realise at the moment! Romance: A friend who understands you well may give you advice which you would rather ignore. This person may be wiser than they seem!

LEO Jul 23 – Aug 22

Don't ignore a problem which has been worrying you recently. A friend who has been through a similar experience will give you some useful advice. Romance: At times it may seem that your partner is not there for you emotionally. However you will appreciate their support when you get it.

VIRGO Aug 23 – Sep 22

An unexpected remark from a co-worker may get you down. This person may be jealous about something you have achieved recently, so don't take it too seriously. Romance: A recent improvement in your emotions may have something to do with a new person in your life. This person is interested in you, but they are very shy.

LIBRA Sep 23 – Oct 22

A message which comes from out of the blue will cheer you up. This person has had some very interesting experiences recently, and will be able to give you a piece of good advice. Romance: An admirer who is too forward may put you off. Make it clear that you would like to take your time getting to know this person before you get involved romantically.

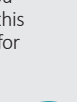

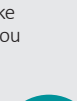

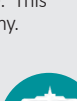

SCORPIO Oct 23 – Nov 21

So long as you trust to your intuition, you shouldn't go far wrong. You will need to make an important decision before learning all the facts. Romance: A co-worker whom you thought you knew very well may surprise you this week. This person has been interested in you for some time, but has been too shy to say so.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 22 – Dec 21

A dream at the beginning of the week will intrigue you. Not everything in the dream is going to come true, but you definitely have a lot to look forward to over the next few days! Romance: A decision which has important consequences for the future should not be made without a lot of thought.

Community Diary A GUIDE TO WHAT'S ON IN OUR AREA

Thursday 21

Join The Precinct for a heat warming community lunch with a creative twist this Thursday from 12pm. Every month, the space is hosting a different art or craft activity to explore, and invites the community to come and connect and learn more about the neighbourhood. Tickets are $2 and available via Eventbrite.

Friday 22

Metal on Murray is returning for another night of head-banging fun, this time with local legends such as Those left behind and Forest Avenue. Doors are at 7pm this Friday at the iconic Prince Albert Hotel.

Saturday 23

Market in the Gardens is coming to Angle Vale this weekend for a twilight market. The event features over 60 market stalls, a kids zone, outdoor eatery, live music and show bags. This family fun event has free entry, and is welcoming the community from 2pm onwards.

Sunday 24

Poets @ The Pub is hosting another writing session this weekend, encouraging local writers to finish their pieces that are still a 'work in progress' as the year winds down. Locals are invited to come and write in a shared space at the Prince Albert Hotel from 11am.

Monday 25

The Elizabeth Rise Community Centre is hosting a craft session inviting the community to come and create some special cards in time for the holiday season. This advanced card making class is led by the centre's skilled facilitator Sheree, and will walk participants through the intricacies of creating beautiful cards. Tickets start from $3 and are available via Eventbrite.

Tuesday 26

Join The Precinct for a fun afternoon making clay bird decorations for the garden with some basic pottery techniques. This community craft session encourages participants to indulge in some calm creativity without judgement. Tickets are $15 and available via Eventbrite.

Town of Gawler Temporary Road Closures

Villawood Gawler Christmas Parade

To complement proceedings at the Villawood Gawler Christmas Parade on Saturday 30 November 2024, temporary parking and traffic management will be in place from 4.30pm to 9pm.

NOTICE UNDER SECTION 33 ROAD TRAFFIC ACT, 1961

I, Christopher Drew Holland, Senior Sergeant First Class of Police, for, and on behalf of the Commissioner of Police, exercise the authority delegated by the Minister for Transport under Section 11 Road Traffic Act, and make the following order under Section 33 of the Act

I declare that '2024 Gawler Christmas Parade' is an event to which this section applies and that the following roads be closed to traffic on Saturday 30 November 2024 between times stated below:

Within the Town of Gawler Council area: -

- Walker Place, Gawler between Murray Street and Whitelaw Terrace.
- Murray Street and Lyndoch Road, Gawler between Walker Place and Lyndoch Road. Between 4.30pm and 9pm
- Julian Terrace / Whitelaw Terrace, Gawler between Bridge Street South and Tod Street. Between 4.30pm and 9pm (Lateral Shift – northbound left lane closed)

I direct that persons taking part in the '2024 Gawler Christmas Parade' on the above road be exempted from all Australian Road Rules relating to pedestrian behaviour, the carriage of persons in or on vehicles, and seatbelts as long as the vehicles do not exceed 10 km/h.

TEMPORARY TRAFFIC CONTROL DEVICE NOTICE UNDER SECTION 17 (3) ROAD TRAFFIC ACT, 1961

I further declare that the '2024 Gawler Christmas Parade' to be conducted at Gawler is a 'temporary purpose' to which this section applies.

I direct that a 25 km/h speed restriction will apply to the following roads on Saturday 30 November 2024 between times stated below:

Within the Town of Gawler Council area: -

- Murray Street, Gawler between Cowan Street and Lyndoch Road
- Lyndoch Road, Gawler between Murray Street and High Street
- Whitelaw Terrace, Gawler between Bridge Street South and a point approximately 50 metres north of Walker Place
- Murray Street, Gawler between Calton Road and a point approximately 50 metres south Between 4.30pm and 9pm.

I also hereby authorise SEYCHELL TRAFIC or its agents and contractors to install and remove, or cause the installation and removal of necessary and appropriate traffic control devices for the conduct of this event.

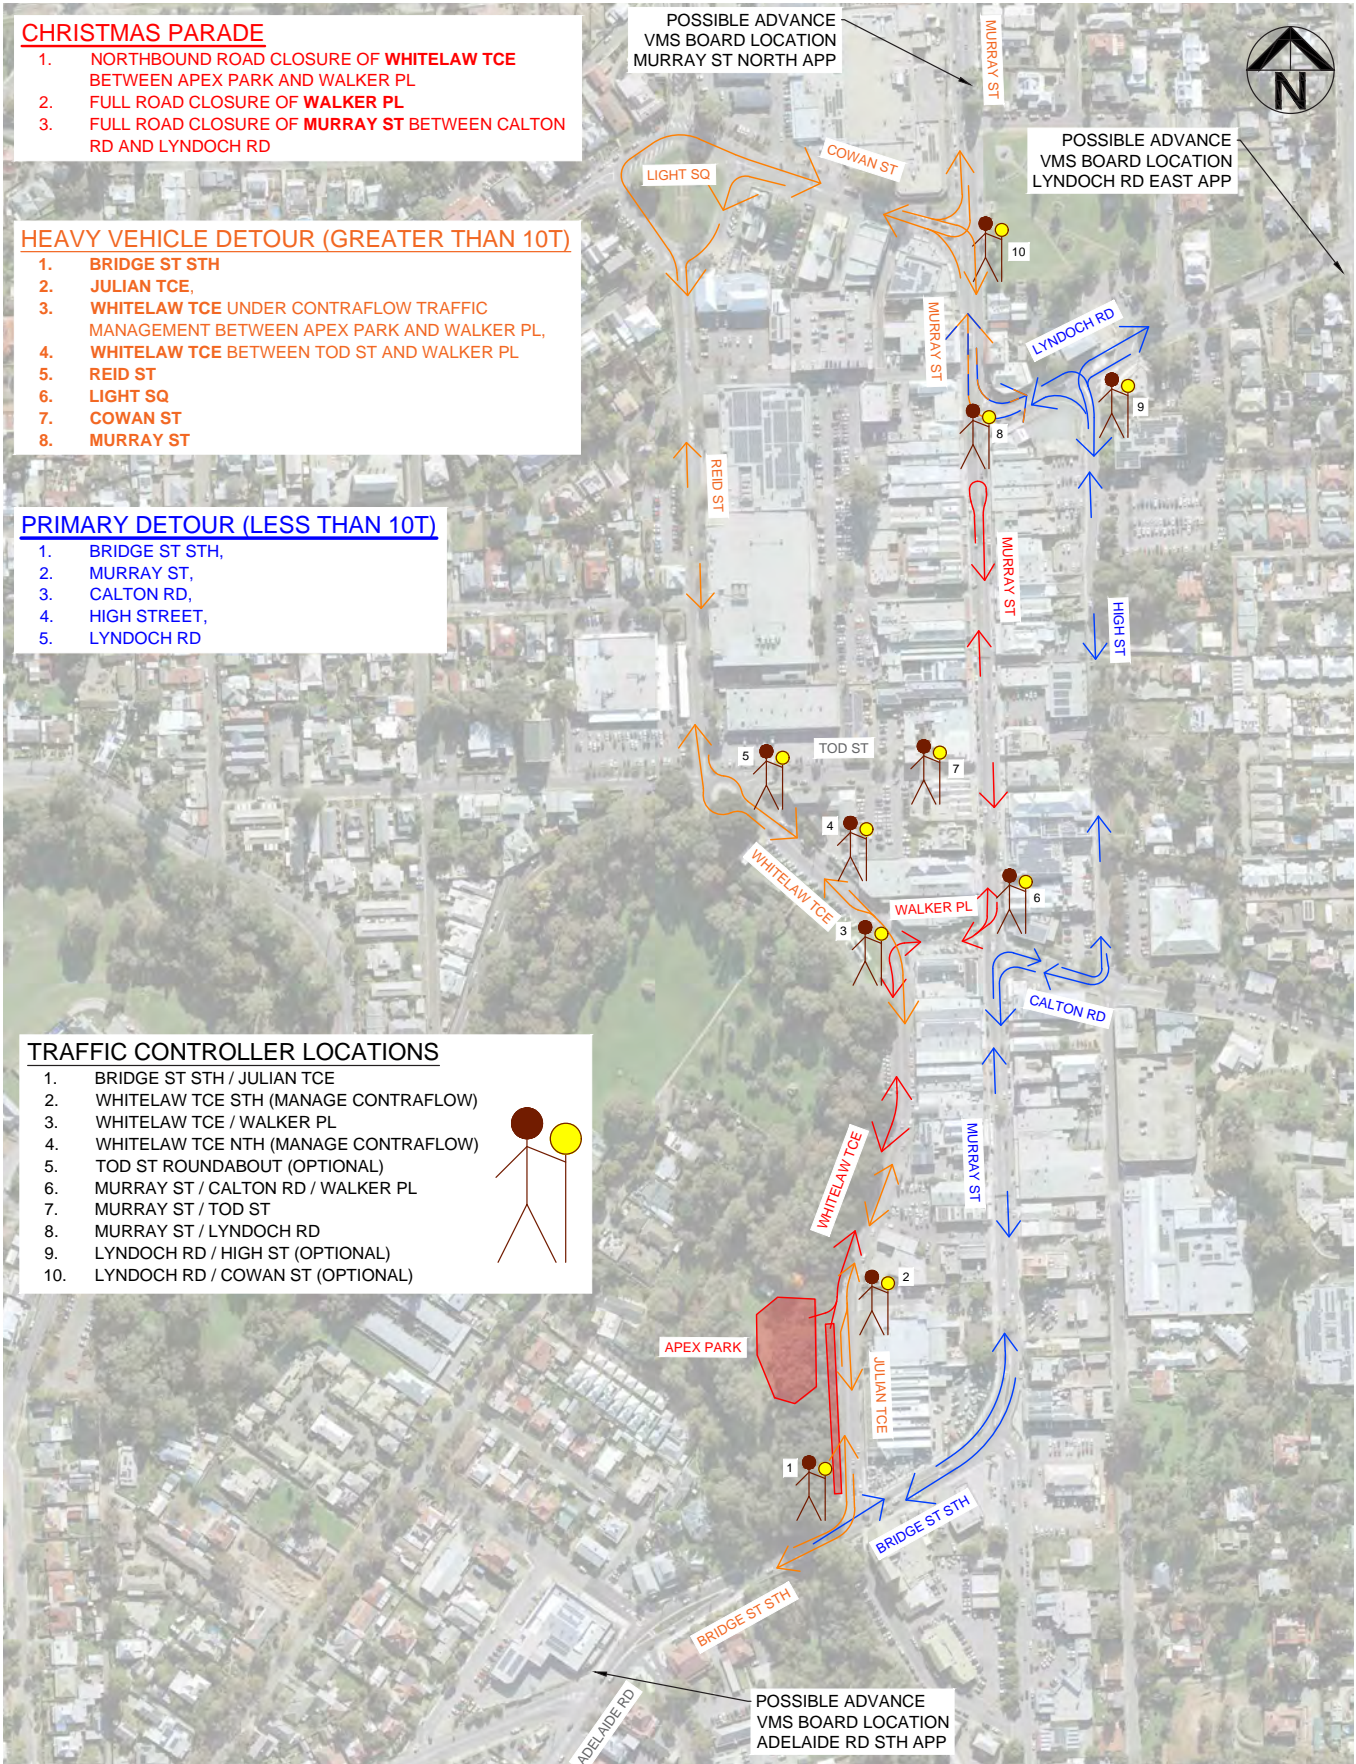

I direct that the installation and removal of necessary and appropriate traffic control devices for the conduct of this event can only be performed by a person with work zone traffic management training.

All works to be undertaken must be done so in accordance with the 'SA Standards for Workzone Traffic Management' (which calls up the Austroads Guide to Temporary Traffic Management and AS1742.3).

The permit holder must ensure that, a legible and complete copy of this Approval (as either a hard copy or electronic copy) is available at the event site at all times that workers are present and is immediately provided to an Authorised Officer upon request.

Welcome to the 2024
Villawood Gawler
Christmas Parade

STUART HEADLAND.
GENERAL MANAGER SA & BUILT FORM
VILLAWOOD PROPERTIES

FOR more than three decades, Villawood Properties has been designing communities that extend far beyond bricks and mortar.

With its values underpinned by a strong sense of wellbeing for its residents, the communities are places where neighbours become friends and where everything comes together to positively impact a real sense of belonging and connection.

From communities filled with parks and playgrounds, residents' clubs with swimming pools and colourful sculptures, it is how Villawood brings all these elements together for people to feel at home that sets it apart.

With this philosophy embedded in its values, Villawood's excitement to partner with the Gawler Christmas Parade further reinforces its spirit of bringing people together to create strong sense of community, supporting local organisations and sharing in the joy of the festivities.

At Villawood, it is about life. Life that is not just lived but celebrated with abundance and joy.

TONY PICCOLO MP,
MEMBER FOR LIGHT

AS we gather to celebrate the 2024 Villawood Gawler Christmas Parade, I am filled with immense pride and joy.

It is a time for us to come together, celebrate our festive spirit and create lasting memories.

With 44 different entrants this year and the Gawler Apex Christmas Markets coinciding on the same day, this promises to be the biggest Christmas Parade yet.

The parade is not just a display of festive cheer; it reflects the hard work and dedication of countless individuals and groups.

From the schools and local organisations to our generous sponsors, including Villawood, Town of Gawler, Business Gawler, Gawler Central Shopping Centre, Beyond Bank and Gawler Mitre 10, this event would not be possible without their unwavering support.

I also want to give a shoutout to my staff and their efforts to organise this event.

Although, the way our community rallies behind the parade and puts their hands up to pitch in, it makes the workload a lot easier – plus the joy on the faces of local families and friends makes it all worthwhile.

I am particularly excited about the diverse range of participants this year.

Their enthusiasm and creativity promise to make this parade a truly magical experience for all.

Whether you are joining us in person on Murray Street or tuning in via the live stream, I encourage you to embrace the festive spirit and enjoy the spectacle.

Thank you for being a part of this wonderful tradition. Together, let us make this year's parade the best one yet.

On behalf of the Council Members and staff at the Town of Gawler, I wish you all a

Merry Christmas and a safe and happy New Year

villawood Gawler Christmas Parade

FOR THOSE WHO CAN'T ATTEND

The 2024 parade is set to be a massive event, with nearly 50 entrants into the parade making it even bigger and better than last year's roaring success.

From the CFS to council, from to sporting clubs to local businesses, Gawler's best and brightest will be strutting their stuff in what is set to be a colourful parade full of Christmas cheer.

Unable to make this year's Villawood Gawler Community Christmas Parade 2024?

Tune into our live stream on our Facebook and Instagram social media pages and watch all the action unfold wherever you are!

Keep an eye on our socials as live streams will keep popping up from 6pm as we hear from some of the parade entrants, talk to some stall holders and entertainers before the official parade live stream kicks off at 7pm.

This year's event will see a whopping 44 different groups marching down Murray Street from 7pm.

If you are attending, the street closure will commence at 6pm – making it the perfect time to arrive and secure a great spot to watch the parade.

Don't forget to check out the Gawler Apex Christmas Markets from 5-9pm at Apex Park as more than 60 stall holders will be there along with entertainment and hospitality.

Apex Park is also the place to be following the parade as you'll be able to mingle with all the entrants, tell Santa your wish list and watch as the Rotary Club of Gawler Light switches on its Christmas Riverbank lights display.

Make sure you watch right to the end for a chance to catch a glimpse of the big man dressed in red!

CHRISTMAS PARADE

Villawood Properties is thrilled to be back for a second year at the annual Villawood Gawler Community Christmas Parade, and we can't wait to bring festive cheer and excitement to the streets of Gawler.

For Villawood Properties, community is everything – it's the heartbeat of a life that's rich with connection, wellbeing and fulfilment. That's why community events like the Villawood Gawler Christmas Parade are so special. They have the power to bring people together and foster a deeper sense of belonging and town pride. Strong, vibrant communities thrive on this, and there's no time quite like Christmas for bringing that true sense of community to life.

Community events like these create more opportunities for residents to connect, celebrate, and build lasting memories. The joy and excitement shared resonate far beyond the festivities, strengthening the bonds between neighbours and enhancing the collective spirit of the town.

We are proud to be part of this wonderful celebration and look forward to witnessing the 2024 Christmas Parade come alive.

At Villawood, it's about life. Life that's not just lived but celebrated with abundance and joy. And what better time to share joy than Christmas!

The 2024 Villawood Gawler Community Christmas Parade will be held on Saturday the 30th of November, 2024.
